

JAPS TAKE TARKAN AFTER DUTCH DESTROY OIL; AMERICAN AND FILIPINO ARTILLERY ARE SUPERIOR

Ex-Lawyer Seeks to Cut Term in Jail

John C. O'Connor Seeks Release Through Show Cause Order Before Justice Russell
Pleads Other Case
Brooklyn Attorney Also In Similar Plight; Bitz Case Cited

John C. O'Connor of Forest Hills, now serving a two-to-four-year term in Sing Sing prison for second degree grand larceny under a conviction growing out of a charge of taking money from a Brooklyn woman by representing that he could get her a civil service position, appeared before Justice Pierce H. Russell Monday afternoon in supreme court seeking release from prison. Under a show cause order he asked the court to grant a certiorari order to review the action of the Parole Board which has refused to parole him.

O'Connor, a former New York lawyer, appeared in court in custody of two guards from Sing Sing and argued his own case as well as that of William F. McGuinness, a former assistant district attorney of Brooklyn, who is also serving time in Sing Sing on a bribery and conspiracy charge.

Mr. O'Connor said that both cases were identical and he asked the court to direct that the Parole Board review its action and parole them. Both have served their minimum term.

Everett D. Mereness of the attorney general's office appeared for the state Parole Board and asked the court to dismiss the petition of the two men. He relied on the Irving Bitz case where Bitz, connected with the Lindbergh kidnapping case, failed to secure his release after appealing to the Court of Appeals. Mr. Mereness held that the Bitz case was similar to the present case and that the same principal of law applied.

Would Review Order

O'Connor said that the order of the Parole Board should be reviewed and that the court should direct their release. He said that the Bitz case decision had been correct but that the present case was not a parallel case.

At the conclusion of the argument Justice Russell took the papers and reserved decision.

O'Connor held that both he and McGuinness were entitled to parole.

Stretch Rubber Manufacturers Are Joining With Government for Synthetic Rubber

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Oil, rubber and chemical companies joined with the government today in a synthetic rubber production program calling for five times the combined output of Germany and Italy—enough to make the armed forces independent of the Malay-Indonesian plantations.

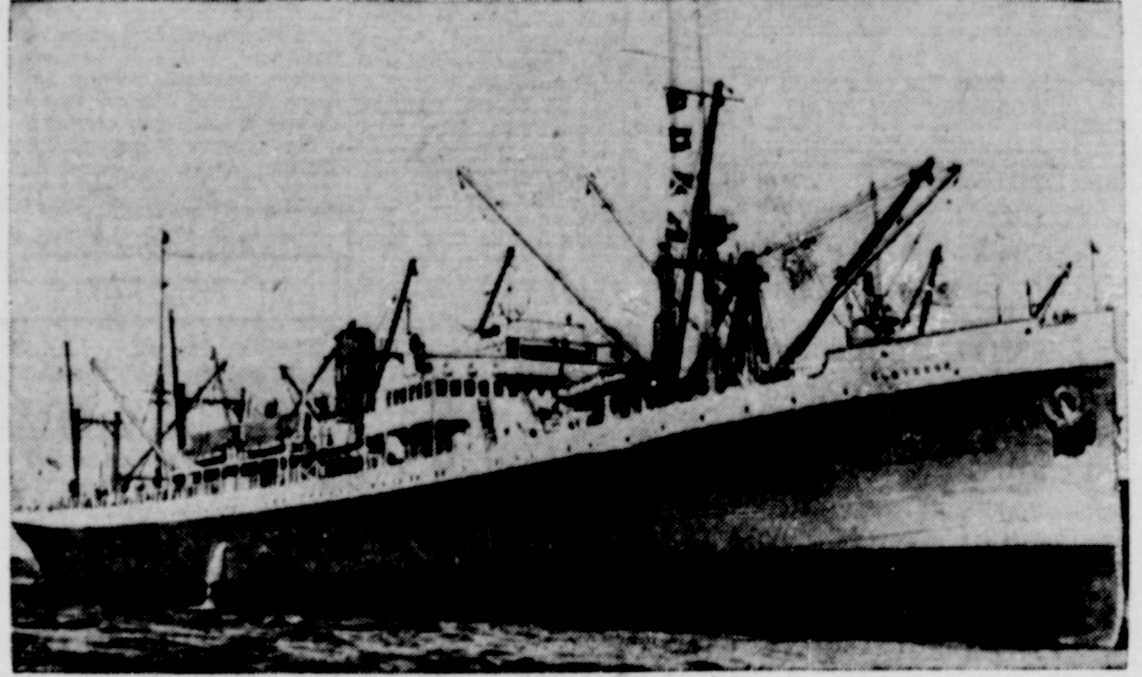

As approved by President Roosevelt and outlined by Jesse Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, the $400,000,000 program provides for factories which would reach a production rate of 400,000 tons of artificial rubber annually in 18 months, using a petroleum base.

With rubber stocks on hand, Jones said yesterday, the program would be sufficient to supply all military and some civilian needs, assuring such items as tires for the 120,000 tanks, and tires and self-sealing fuel tanks for the 185,000 planes in the 1942 and 1943 ordnance schedules.

The tin outlook is "pretty bright," Jones said. The first American tin smelter, now being built at Texas City, Tex., will start processing Bolivian ore in April. Its 30,000 tons a year output will take up much of the slack resulting from cutting off of supplies from Malay.

In the rubber program, the defense plants corporation already had under construction plants which would increase the synthetic rubber output of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co., and United States Rubber Co., to 150,000 tons annually as compared with a total synthetic rubber production of 12,000 tons in 1941.

Army Transport Destroyed by Fire

Destruction by fire of the U. S. Army transport Clevedon (above) in Alaskan waters was reported by the war department in Washington. The ship, a combination passenger and freight vessel of 7,314 tons, was said to be a total loss, but all personnel were saved. The cause of the fire was being investigated, the war department said, without indicating whether it was believed to have resulted from enemy action.

Wartime Laws Are Before Legislators

2nd Ward Red Cross Workers Have $1,200

At the initial report meeting of the Second Ward Red Cross War Fund solicitors held Monday evening at Public School, No. 6, there was a total of $1,200 in contributions listed. This was but a partial report from the Second ward organization.

On Monday evening next at Public School, No. 6, another report meeting will be held at 7 o'clock. All workers in the ward are expected to report at this time so that a full accounting may be given.

Injuries Fatal to Wurtsboro Man

Walter Coleman, 49, Was Struck by Auto on Saturday Night

Walter Coleman, 49, formerly of 429 53rd street, Brooklyn, but who has been living about two miles north of Wurtsboro on Route 209, died in the Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown on Sunday afternoon from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile about 1:45 o'clock Sunday morning. Coleman suffered a fractured skull, a fractured right leg and left hip.

According to the authorities who investigated, Coleman presumably slipped and fell in the highway and was struck by an automobile. Fire Chief Edward Wilkinson of Wurtsboro informed the police that his car might have struck Coleman as the latter was lying in the road but state police had not determined whether another car had hit Coleman previously. No charge has been made against Wilkinson.

According to the authorities Coleman had arrived at his home near Wurtsboro from Brooklyn on Saturday night. He met several friends and visited a restaurant with them. Later they became separated and Coleman evidently was walking to his home when he was struck.

The man was seen lying in the road by Isidore Levine, a truck driver of Ellenville, who stopped and investigated. Various other motorists stopped and among them was Fire Chief Wilkinson.

The fire chief reportedly said he had been traveling on the Ellenville road earlier, that he recalled having felt a bump at about the scene of the accident and that he had turned around and returned to the scene after having seen a pedestrian in the highway farther on. He reported to the Wurtsboro state police station.

In the meantime at Levine's request the state police were summoned by telephone from an air observation post at the Wurtsboro airport. Police called the Horton Hospital ambulance.

Coleman's body was removed to Brooklyn Sunday.

Cars Derailed

Three freight cars were derailed at the North Yard of the West Shore Railroad this morning, blocking the eastbound mainline track for a short time.

Committee Free To Deal on Price Control Measure

No Hint as to What President Expected on Controversial Farm Prices

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Members of the House banking committee said today that President Roosevelt gave them a "free hand" with the controversial price control bill at a White House conference.

Chairman Steagall, (D-Ala.) of the banking committee, said that the President "recommended we get the best bill we could, and we said we would."

But as to the controversial provision bearing on farm prices, Steagall offered no hint as to what the President expected.

Representative Wolcott, (R-Mich.) said that the President wanted to help farmers all he could yet keep prices within reasonable bounds and not stir up dissension.

It was Wolcott who said the chief executive had not put the Congressional delegation "on the spot" and had given it a free hand.

The committee members who will represent the House in trying to work out a compromise with the Senate on the price control bill and who called on Mr. Roosevelt in addition to Steagall and Wolcott, were Representatives Williams (D-Mo.), Spence (D-Ky.) and Gifford (R-Mass.).

Well-informed congressional sources predicted that Mr. Roosevelt would ask the five conferees today to strive for the elimination of two Senate-approved provisions which the administration considers undesirable.

One of these would invest agriculture secretary Wickard with virtual veto power over any price ceilings the price administrator might set for farm products. Mr. Roosevelt urged against this dual control in telegrams to Senate leaders last week, but the chamber disregarded him and wrote the clause into the measure.

The second unwelcome provision for the administration is the stipulation which would permit the prices of farm products to rise to 120 per cent of parity before any ceiling could be imposed. (Parity is a price which would give farmers the same return, in terms of purchasing power, that they received in the base period, 1909-1914.)

For the special conference on the legislation, Mr. Roosevelt invited these members of the House banking committee: chairman Steagall, (D-Ala.), Williams (D-Mo.), Spence (D-Ky.), Wolcott (R-Mich.) and Gifford (R-Mass.).

Fruit Growers of Valley Will Have Part in Program

One of the features of the meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society here from January 28 to 30, will be participation in the program by a large number of Hudson Valley fruit growers. The program has been planned to help growers in meeting problems in the year ahead, and the program committee decided to draw largely upon grower experience.

It is possible that spraying may present some new difficulties this year because of war conditions. There will be forums on disease and insect control, in which specialists of the State Agricultural College and the Experiment Station will report on the outlook. Dr. P. J. Chapman of the Geneva Station will sum up for insect control, and Dr. W. D. Mills of the State College will give the summary for disease control.

Prof. J. A. Evans, Cornell University entomologist, will preside at a discussion on oil sprays. After introductory remarks by Doctor Chapman, experiences with oil and oil-di-nitro sprays will be given by Dr. O. H. Hammer of the Hudson Valley Laboratory, Poughkeepsie; R. W. Tousey, Hudson; Lawrence Howard, Kinderhook; John Van Geluwe, Middletown; E. Reynolds Farley, Goshen, and Professor Evans. During the past season there were conflicting results with various combinations of oil sprays, and opportunity will be given growers to ask questions.

Holton V. Noyes, state commissioner of agriculture and markets; Dr. W. I. Myers, head of the agricultural economics department at Cornell University; Samuel Fraser of Rochester, secretary of the International Apple Association, and Truman Nold of Washington, manager of the National Apple Institute, are among the speakers who will attempt to forecast what growers may expect during the year ahead.

Willkie Selected To Serve on New War Labor Board

Unit Created Yesterday Will Absorb Functions of Old Set-Up

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt has selected Wendell L. Willkie, the man he defeated for the presidency in 1940, as one of a number of umpires and arbitrators to assist the new 12-man war labor board, and discussed the job with Willkie today.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, indicated Willkie had not definitely accepted the position, and said the list was incomplete.

The labor board, with William H. Davis as chairman, was created late yesterday by executive order and is armed with authority to submit labor disputes to binding arbitration to keep war industries operating at full speed. It superseded the Defense Mediation Board, and will absorb its functions and most of its employees.

Asked whether there would be an umpire for each trade, Early replied that he could not describe the exact machinery the war labor board would use but that in most of its important cases it would work as a panel and sitting with the members would be an umpire.

Willkie has consulted the chief executive with comparative frequency in recent months and there have been repeated rumors that he would be asked to take a government position, particularly since he has been a strong supporter of most aspects of the administration's foreign policy.

The war labor board is an outgrowth of the recent industry-conference in Washington which agreed to end strikes and lockouts during the war.

Davis the New York patent lawyer who also headed the Defense Mediation Board, will be one of four representing the public. Industry and labor will be represented by four each, with labor's representation divided equally between the C.I.O. and the A.F.L.

In Dispute

Paper Press Needed; Call Mr. Goodfellow

The Kingston Advisory Committee for the collection of waste paper in the interest of national defense, reports a serious need for a paper press. The children throughout the city are doing a good job in the collection of waste paper, news-paper and cardboard and their efforts are mounting daily.

The need of conservation and saving of paper has been stressed and the committee reports the public generally co-operating.

In order to properly store the paper to prevent a fire hazard, a paper press is urgently needed. Anyone desirous of loaning a press may get in touch with George Goodfellow, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A.

It is contemplated that a bin for the deposit of paper may be established in the central part of the city as a convenience for all cooperating in this movement.

Jap Air Bombers Hit at Singapore

Japs Gradually Extending Bases Toward Singapore

Crucial Allied Weakness in the Air Becomes More Marked Daily, Analyst Asserts

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

Today's report of the progress of the battle of the Pacific is a rerun of yesterday's record—a continuation of Japanese success.

The sum-total of this is that the Mikado's forces gradually are extending their island bases towards Java and Sumatra and Singapore—the chief prizes which they seek at this juncture—and are getting set for a major onslaught on these great objectives.

If the Japs gain these goals, they will have fresh sinews of war which are likely to carry them far. The crucial allied weakness in the air becomes more marked daily. We are told that both American and British reinforcements are on the way to the Far East, but whether they include the vital warplanes isn't disclosed.

Despite this temporary gloomy picture, one of the most reassuring pronouncements of recent days is Secretary of the Navy, Knox's declaration that the Japanese assault won't be allowed to distract this country's attention from the first business at hand—the destruction of Hitler.

"That done," says Colonel Knox bluntly, "the whole Axis fabric will collapse."

Probably the colonel, being a two-fisted individual himself, would be the last to claim that this medicine is easy for our people to take. They want retribution for the barbaric murder of American civilians and fighting men. Still, like it or not, the secretary is giving the common sense of the thing—a view held by all the allied military commands.

Knox's Statement

Colonel Knox's statement comes at a time when Hitler's difficulties might encourage a popular demand for a diversion of allied fighting forces to the Far East.

That is what the Fuehrer is praying we will do. It takes determination not to, but it is the only strategy which can give us certain victory in a reasonable length of time. We can bomb Tokyo after we have the Nazi chief under lock and key—or whatever it is they do with people of his ilk.

The German losses of Hitler are so many that one wonders whether perchance he hasn't invented some of them to throw us off the trail. Daily the Russians continue to throw back his weakened lines, and the winter takes its terrible toll of life. Spotted typhus, the scourge of armies, has spread to many parts of eastern Europe and now is reported to have reached Germany. This plague can be more devastating than are tanks and airplanes.

The tale of Hitler's quarrel with his high command grows bigger. And now along comes a further report of trouble in the command of his navy. Terrorism against Nazi troops of occupation continues in many places, and the guerrilla warfare of the unquarrelable Serbs is a matter of grave concern to the Axis.

An Associated Press dispatch from Egypt records the capture of a Nazi military order which states that "owing to the great expenditure of fuel on the eastern front, the fuel situation in the Reich is exceptionally stringent." That's one of the worst things that could happen to Hitler, because he can't run his war machine or industries without oil. Along with all this, the food shortage in Europe is increasing dangerously.

In short, the general European situation is one from which we are entitled to take much encouragement. However, we emphatically should not underestimate Hitler's remaining strength. It is still a great, and we must expect him to lash out again soon. Certainly, apart from any other operations, he will undertake a great offensive against the Russians in the spring, unless the Reds are able to precipitate a Nazi rout now.

The spring may develop the decisive battles of the war in Europe. Therefore we must keep on pouring resources into this theatre. The Russians must be strengthened and kept strong. When Hitler falls, the Japs will follow suit. Meantime the Far Eastern situation is no cause for despair.

British Submarines in the Mediterranean Torpedo Italian Supply Ship, Sink Minesweeper

Allied Help

Believe Heavy Allied Counter Blows May Soon Be Struck

(By The Associated Press)

Japanese invaders have captured the little oil-producing island of Tarakan off northeast Borneo but a stubbornly-fighting little Dutch garrison held them off until all oil fields and all equipment were thoroughly demolished, it was announced officially late tonight.

Only then, the Aneta news agency said, did the garrison's survivors surrender.

Large numbers of Japanese had poured onto Tarakan, literally overrunning it, and a communique said only remnants of the garrison escaped to the mainland.

American and Filipino artillery batteries have "proved definitely superior" to the Japanese, the war department here said today in announcing that columns of enemy tanks, other armored units and infantry had been "shattered and dispersed" in a 24-hour battle.

Eleven Japanese batteries were silenced and others were forced to fall back under relentless shelling by the American-Filipino guns in defense of positions on the Batan peninsula west of Manila Bay, the department said.

(The usual artillery battery in the world's armies consists of four guns. On this basis the report from the Philippines would credit the defenders with wiping out 44 field guns, a considerable measure of firepower in the comparatively small fighting area.)

Japanese losses were called "heavy," while that of the defenders were labeled "relatively slight."

Japanese air bombers smashed at Singapore today despite a violent anti-aircraft barrage but apparently inflicted little damage.

The admiralty announced tonight a 5,222-ton Italian supply ship had been torpedoed, another Axis supply ship of medium size had been set afire by gunfire and an Italian minesweeper sunk by British submarines in the Mediterranean.

The German radio broadcast an account by a Nazi reporter on the Eastern Front today acknowledging a shortage of men for important positions facing Russian forces

To Australia Capital Aroused to Grim Possibility of Push Back to Australia

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The unchecked pace of Japan's expanding conquests aroused the capital today to the grim possibility that the United Nations may be forced back to Australia, the last bastion from which a major counteroffensive can be launched in the South Pacific.

This admittedly was taking a long view, but the tide of battle in the Far East encouraged scant optimism even though Washington held doggedly to the hope that somewhere in the East Indies the enemy would be brought up short by a serious defeat.

Dutch silence on details of the fighting on Celebes and Borneo was generally interpreted as an indication that the Japanese invaders were gaining ground. The desperate situation in the Philippines was no better. On the Malay Peninsula the monotonous story of enemy successes continued.

In this drive toward Singapore, the Japanese already were in a position for a flanking attack on the Dutch island of Sumatra. Should both Borneo and Sumatra fall, the invaders would be poised for a pincers assault on Java, the strongly defended island which is the core of Netherlands resistance.

However, the disposition in many quarters of the capital was to face the worst possibilities squarely on the theory that if the worst did not happen, so much the better. This attitude was strengthened by the remarks of Navy Secretary Knox, who said yesterday that no decisive showdown with the Japanese fleet could be expected in the near future.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Long Stretch

New York—The seagull smoke-eaters of the fireboat James Duane may take along a week's rations next time they answer an alarm. The fireboat returned to her berth today, exactly 116 hours after responding to an alarm last Thursday for the fire that destroyed a Hudson river pier. It had been wetting down the ruins all that time.

Taking No Chances

Los Angeles—Police may want to ask this question: "If they ever catch him—He stole the life detector last night from Los Angeles City College."

Or Vice Versa

Thermopolis, Wyo.—Sign on an old automobile here reads: "For sale—$75 with tires, $15 without."

Any Cops?

Garden City, Kas.—This town of 6,000 population is beginning its tenth consecutive year without a traffic fatality. There isn't a stop-and-go light within 100 miles.

Makes It Unanimous

Arkansas City, Kas.—Peggy Pepper, little cocker spaniel, may have been alarmed last week at the sagging jaws of the Cecil Hawkins family.

Papa Hawkins and five little ones came down with the mumps. But Peggy should understand now. She's got 'em too.

Old Ones Worn Out?

Kansas City—The tire rationing board told Marshall Buxton and C. D. Adams to go ahead and buy tires for their automobiles—if they could find them.

Buxton's Ford is 14 years old. Adams' Hummobile is of 1929 vintage.

The board said tires for both models came in the "obsolete" category.

Double Duty Horn

Minonk, Ill.—Joe Johnson doesn't mind a bit any longer that his automobile horn sounds off of its own accord.

It used to vex him until once its voluntary blowing brought him to the window to see the back seat of his car afire. Running outside with a fire extinguisher, he put the fire out before it destroyed the car.

He Owned It, But—

Omaha—A. B. Gendler went through a lot of trouble to sell himself a tire.

He needed the tire for one of his transport trucks and although he owns a filling station carrying a stock of tires he had to go through the whole tire rationing procedure before he could sell one to himself.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n

Kerhonkson

The regular meeting of the Kerhonkson Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday evening, January 7, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Millard Davis, president of the association, reported a membership of 132 persons. Dr. Hollis Ingraham of the county health officer addressed the assembly on the topic, "Health and National Defense." He also showed films dealing with vital health problems. Dr. Ingraham concluded his talk by saying: "It may be said that the government fully recognizes the necessity of maintaining a high standard of health among the armed forces and is taking adequate measures to maintain that standard. However, in modern warfare, the health of civilians is fully as important, and it behooves us to make a special effort to improve civilian health."

On this program was also a play, entitled "Billy's First Date," presented by the Dramatics Club and directed by June MacDowell, adviser.

Uncle Ted's Question Bee, a regular feature of the meetings, caused four representatives of the Men's Glee Club as against a local number of men from the local Lions' Club. Refreshments and Parent-Teacher conferences concluded the evening's planned activities.

Highland Unit

Vincent Connelly, president of the Ulster County Bar Association, will be the first speaker at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the activity room in the high school Monday evening. Mr. Connelly will bring the message of the needs of the Red Cross of which the town of Lloyd's share is $1,800. Other speakers on the program will present the needs of the hour are: Trooper Martin of the state police, who will speak on Safety; Elmer Fisher, one of the chairmen for evacuees, will explain what is required along that line; Clarence Tompkins, defense chairman for the town, will give some highlights on the war; William H. Maynard, fire chief, will talk on Fire Prevention. The audience is urged to ask questions.

In connection with the above speakers the pupils of the 7A and 7B grades are each giving short plays. The first, "Safety Comes and Troubles Go," is by the pupils of Mrs. George Thompson. The cast: Boy Twin Fred, John Blakely; twin girl Freda, Patricia Coy; deaf Grandma Maggie, Joan Hasbrouck; Grandpa Moses, Raymond Minard; Irvin, Charles Scott; Ruth, Marilyn Dimsey; maid Ambrosia, Joanne Connor; Mother Louise, Grace Brucklacher; Father John, Peter De Luca; Aunt Penelope, Patricia Gaffney; Uncle Alphonso, Robert Rhodes; announcer, Paula Coutant.

The pupils of Guy Dolson present "Susan is Forgotten" with Anna Dagostina as announcer; Brad, Robert McDowell; Latty, Marie Mazziotto; mother, Marie Hartoullos; policeman, Michael Bell; fireman, Richard Woolsey; Susan, Danny Timperio.

A brief business meeting will precede the talks and plays presented over by Mrs. William Coy. The P. T. A. having a request for a contribution for the Red Cross toward the budget of $1,800, the officers will contribute a personal contribution and will ask for a voluntary contribution that evening.

CUBANS ORGANIZE

Calling itself the "Inter-Caribbean V-lunteer Committee," an organization has been formed at Moron, Cuba, by persons desiring to volunteer their services to the United States and Cuban governments in the war against the Axis. The Committee already has enlisted a large number of volunteers, it is announced.

Red Cross War Fund

A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County Committee will help keep the fighting men healthy, happy and efficient.

Sign Boosts Area as Winter Resort

Ulster County and Catskill Mountain region in general are expected to come in for more attention each year because of facilities for winter sports and because of the proximity of the region to the metropolitan district. Shown above is a sign along route 9-W just outside the city calling attention to the fact that this region is a winter vacationland.

HIGHLAND

D. of A. Meets

Highland, Jan. 12 — Councilor Mrs. Charlotte Salomon presided at the regular meeting of Ida McKinley Council, Daughters of America, Wednesday evening. The installation of officers was deferred until Wednesday, January 21 because Deputy Mrs. Anna Minkler of Saugerties did not arrive. Substitute officers were: Mrs. Bertha Freer, associate junior past councilor; Mrs. Viola Constable, assistant financial secretary; Mrs. Minna Gonsalus, vice-councilor; Mrs. Hazel Palmer, vice-councilor. State officers received were: Mrs. Goldie Gerhardt, associate junior past state councilor from Kingston; Matilda Hahn, Kingston, deputy of Imperial Council, Saugerties and Mrs. Cecile Petersen, New Paltz, deputy of Vanderlyn Council, Kingston. Mrs. Minnie Terpening, Mrs. Martha C. Schantz and Mrs. Grace Decker were reported ill with colds. The quarterly report of Mrs. Louise Shuley, chairman of trustees; Mrs. Daisy Macken, financial secretary; Mrs. Gwendolyn Callahan, recording secretary was read. A message from State Councilor Beatrice Simon for New Years was received. An invitation was accepted from Imperial Council, Saugerties to attend installation ceremonies Friday evening when Deputy Matilda Hahn will preside.

The council voted to give $10 to the War Relief fund of the American Red Cross, and purchase $500 worth of defense bonds. At the request of District Deputy Marie Odell of Ellenville, obligation night was observed for all members of the local council. Mrs. Mamie Wood, associate councilor and Mrs. Salomon, councilor, who are taking training courses in Red Cross nursing spoke of the need for women to train for defense work. Mrs. Salomon is also captain of the captain's survey of homes for evacuees. Other speakers were: Mrs. Gerhardt, Miss Hahn, Mrs. Petersen, Mrs. Gerhardt, who is one of the chairmen for defense in Kingston, and Mrs. George Muller whose son is in the service. Appreciation was received from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Constable for their reception and gift honoring their 50th wedding anniversary. A committee of Mrs. Hazel Palmer, councilor; Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Petersen will meet with District Deputy Odell in Kingston, Tuesday evening, January 27 to discuss plans for the district meeting to be held in Ellenville, April 17. The councilor thanked all who assisted with the Christmas party. Mrs. Gonsalus was presented with a bouquet from her husband. A howl lunch was served with the officers in charge, and a howl lunch also will be served at the close of the meeting, January 21.

Women's Group Meets

Highland, Jan. 12—The devotional service at the meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service held Friday afternoon was conducted by Mrs. S. A. MacCormac, who later led in the program. She spoke of the need of Christianity through missions in the warring countries. She quoted a recent letter from Miss Merritt in China, who told of the prices they were compelled to pay for necessities and when the monies from the home churches did not arrive the hardships were greater. Temperance education among church members was stressed with means to control liquor discussed. Work among the legislators was one way to seek control. The society pledged $10 for the Red Cross quota and will hold a series of teas to reimburse their treasury. Many of the members are making pledges toward the budget required and thus do away with the frequent methods of raising funds. Mrs. Charles L. DuBois presided and those present were: Mrs. MacCormac, Mrs. Troy Cook, Mrs. Oscar Elliott, Mrs. J. R. Melius, Mrs. Rose Seaman, Mrs. George DuBois, Mrs. Byron Bennett, Mrs. Leon Burnett, Mrs. Fred Wiley, Mrs. Victor Clearwater, Mrs. James Swift, Miss Daisy Perkins, Mrs. Alvin Smith, Mrs. Isaac Cummings, Mrs. Luther Filkins, Mrs. Walter Constable, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. Harry Maynard, Mrs. John P. Whiteley, and the hostesses: Mrs. Lorin Schantz, Mrs. Herbert Schofield, the Misses Minnie, Bertha and Stella Tiel and Mrs. Hudson Covert, a guest.

Education Is Subject

Highland, Jan. 12 — Spiritual education in the home for adolescent children was the subject of the talk which Mrs. A. H. Campbell had for the Gansse Church School society Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edison Dimsey, Jr. The discussion as to presenting the annual play took place and several plays were read. The members voted $10 toward the sum asked for Red Cross, and they decided to make layettes for Red Cross use. The sewing will be done at the meetings. Mrs. S. A. MacCormac had prepared a geography quiz which gave honors to Mrs. Arthur Clarke and Mrs. John F. Wadlin. Present were: Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Wadlin, Mrs. W. H. Maynard who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Cummings, Jr., Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Howard Thompson, Miss Ethel Swift, Mrs. Henry Swift, Mrs. Floyd Mackey, Mrs. MacCormac, Mrs. Luther Filkins, Mrs. Dimsey, who served refreshments.

Village Notes

Highland, Jan. 12 — Frank Maynard, elected president of the Holy Name Society at its annual meeting Wednesday evening in the St. Augustine church hall. Nicholas Gallo, vice-president; John J. Gaffney, recording secretary; Anthony DeMare, corresponding secretary; Louis Gruener, Sr., treasurer; Charles DeFalco, marshal; Charles Schmidt, and William Barnaby delegates to the New York city convention.

Assemblyman and Mrs. John F. Wadlin attended the Shrine's ball in Kingston, Friday night.

Miss Olga Colyer was a bridesmaid for the marriage of her friend Miss Helen Clark, Saturday in the Marlborough Presbyterian Church.

Jacob Schuble was sufficiently improved to return from Vassar Hospital Friday after receiving treatments for injuries suffered in a fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Cotant, Mrs. John Parks, Richard Burton, Jr., Miss Henrietta Woolsey, left Friday for Waterbury, Conn., where they attended the wedding of the former's son, Saturday. Mr. Burton was an usher.

Members of Chapter A. P. E. O. voted $25 toward the Red Cross amount of $1,800 for the town of Lloyd at their meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gordon E. Wilcox. Mrs. Franklin Welker gave a report of the Christmas greeting cheer cards sent during the past few weeks and Miss Laura Harcourt for correspondence. A most interesting talk on river Ganges was given by Mrs. S. D. Haynes. This is the fifth in the series of Rivers of the World which is the topic of the year. Attending the meeting were: Mrs. C. W. ## Region May Gain In Winter Sports

Nearness to Metropolitan Area During Tire Ban Seen as Factor

The Ulster-Greene Region vacationland which includes some of the finest winter sports country in the state of New York is and is readily accessible to Greater New York apparently is going to continue to be a popular winter sports haven despite the war it was learned today.

Recreation and outdoor exercise long have been known to be the best builder of fitness to meet a difficult task and recreation is absolutely necessary to maintain morale in times of great stress and for that reason local winter sports centers are looking forward to a splendid winter season.

While the entire Ulster-Greene area has been blanketed with several inches of snow for the past two week-ends, skiing has not been particularly good because of the dry condition of the snow and the lack of a good base. Despite this many skiers have taken advantage of the snow and slopes and trails have been well patronized.

War emergencies including the abolition of tire sales had made many sports seek skiing centers closer to New York city and for that reason local ski slopes have been well patronized. The increasing restrictions probably will make motor car traffic less advisable and the closeness of the Catskill areas to New York and the running of snow trains will probably bring to this area some of the largest winter sports crowds in years.

Many Were Skating

While skiing was not perfect over the week-end, skating conditions in this locality were of the best. At Williams Lake in the town of Rosendale a large crowd took advantage of perfect ice conditions. Next Sunday the Middle Atlantic Skating Association will hold ice skating races at Williams Lake when the southern New York ice skating championship races will be held there.

Free information is being supplied at various places in New York city and Macy's maintain a complete winter sports information service. Bulletin boards in New York city also give information at all times as to skiing conditions at the various centers in the Ulster-Greene area. This service included conditions at Pine Hill, Woodstock, Cairo, Rosendale and at Ellenville and also whether the ski towns at Phenicia and Cairo are being operated. The towns are operated whenever there is good skiing.

Crowd at Phenicia

There was a good crowd at the Simpson Memorial slope at Phenicia over the week-end although skiing was not perfect. At Cairo, where a ski tow operated on the Black Head Mountain ski slope is ready for the winter, there was a good crowd also.

The Ulster-Greene area has this year been given a prominent place in the New York State Winter Sports booklet which is published by the state. There were 14 separate stories on winter sports in the area in this year's publication and the closeness to New York is featured as well as the hotel facilities for the area which are to be found in Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Ellenville as well as in the smaller communities close to the skiing slopes and trails.

There was no snow train up the West Shore Sunday but arrangements have been made for a Friday night snow train this week and also a Sunday snow train if the skiing conditions warrant. The Simpson slope ski tow was not in operation Sunday because of the small attendance but if conditions are better the coming week-end the tow will operate.

Memorial Hall, Modena. The following committee will be in charge: Mrs. Lillian Paltridge, Mrs. Freda Paltridge, Mrs. Arthur Schoenberg, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Lester Wager, Mrs. Clara Bahros, Mrs. Cook, Miss Alhusen, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Herbert Winters.

Miss Margaret Cook accompanied members of the 4-H Club girls to New Paltz, Thursday night where they attended a meeting.

Miss Hilda Smith, R. N., of Newburgh was a week-end visitor of relatives in town.

Local members of the Home Bureau attended the project demonstration meeting in Clintondale Thursday.

MODENA

Modena, Jan. 12—A companionable group of women enjoyed a social time, as they conducted a project meeting Thursday, January 8 in the Clintondale Grange Hall. Handwork of various types occupied the time of those who were not being instructed in the weaving course, as taught by Mrs. Lillian Paltridge, local leader. Miss Helena Olds of New Paltz, county leader was present, with a guest, Mrs. Emory Jacobs. Others present were: Mrs. August Zimmerman, Mrs. Edward Jacobs, Mrs. Winfield Jenkins, Mrs. Tracey Coutant, Mrs. Walter Bernhard, Mrs. Siah Roosa, Mrs. Emma Cole, Mrs. William Narrett, Mrs. Howard Simpson, Miss Irene Slicker, Mrs. Lillian Harcourt, Mrs. Clayton Mackey, Mrs. William Alquist, of Clintondale; Mrs. Earl DeWitt, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Gershom, Mrs. Eber Coy, Mrs. Joseph Rutigliano of Ardonia, Mrs. Bernard, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Lester Arnold, Mrs. Lillian Paltridge, Mrs. Joseph Harcourt, Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. Frank Venable of Modena; Mrs. Myron Coons of Plattkill; Mrs. Theodore Wright and visitor from Ireland Corners, Mrs. William Barrett and Mrs. Emma Cole served coffee at noon, when members supplied their own box lunch. The next day January 15 in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Mrs. Frank Black will substitute for Mrs. Simon DuBois in assisting in the food demonstration to be given at this meeting. Mrs. Frank Black, local leader of the refitting furniture project, will give instructions on this subject, Monday and Wednesday, January 12 to 14 at Mrs. Edward Jacobs home in Clintondale.

Mrs. Nelson Hedges and Mrs. Burton Ward attended the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the New Hurley Reformed Church, at Mrs. Van Wyck's home in New Hurley, Wednesday.

Word has been received from Carl Paltridge, of the U. S. Navy, in Norfolk, Va.

Miss Beulah Kelder is visiting Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kelder in Mettacahtons.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atchinson were in New Paltz Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartney and daughter, Joan, were in Newburgh, Friday afternoon.

The third and final lesson on preparation of foods, as taught by specialists from the Cornell University to local leaders of Home Bureau units in Ulster County, to be repeated to members of the organization, will be given Thursday, January 15 in Hasbrouck Hall. The leaders are asking all those who are planning to be present at the lunch, to phone or send a card by Thursday, January 13, to that effect. This request is made in order that only necessary quantities be prepared for the meal. These food lessons, always interesting, are helpful at this time since every homemaker desires to build family health through food nutrition. For this reason it is hoped that there will be a large attendance at Thursday meeting.

HOW TO LIVE For Less

5. Children's Clothes

A Feature Service

Buy children's clothes for utility, rather than style. Get serviceable fabrics for wear and colors to please their eyes. Instead of an overcoat for a growing boy, consider a whipcord or gabardine utility coat with warm fleece lining. But clothes to be worn a second year, a size larger than they need. But never do that for shoes, lest feet be damaged. Repair clothes constantly and don't discard those apparently outgrown until you are sure they will not serve longer. Cuffs on a growing boy's trousers can be turned down and the trousers cleaned and pressed.

Marines in Iceland Are Itching for a Fight

By DREW MIDDLETON
(AP) Feature Service

Reykjavik—Twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, U. S. Marine Corps anti-aircraft gunners watch the skies of Iceland, waiting for a shot at the Luftwaffe.

It is so quiet that you can hear the sentry's footfalls on frozen ground 200 yards away. The lights of Reykjavik glow against an iron-black sky. The blackout which has shadowed Europe from London to Moscow has not yet touched Reykjavik.

All around in the silence are men with guns, men underground waiting for the word which would set in motion a cleverly contrived defense ripping the skies with hundreds of rounds per minute; men sleeping or playing cards in Nissen huts, men standing in the darkness watching and listening.

Eager For Action
These marines can get their guns into action in an incredibly short time, and are eager to try their strength.

"I wish they'd come," said a private from Boston. "We know damn well we can knock 'em down."

Familiar to the gunners are the types of German bombers most likely to be used against Iceland. The walls of their Nissen huts are covered with pictures and silhouettes of the planes. The marines unhesitatingly name any British or American plane which flies over the post.

"Hell, we ought to be able to," they say. "We eat, sleep and work with the damned things." Everything possible has been done to bring anti-aircraft defense of this island to a high state of efficiency. American and British gunners are hot rivals, and there is money bet on who knocks down the first bomber.

Joint Defense Plans
The marines, through joint defense plans with the U. S. Army Air Corps and the R.A.F., expect to be able to handle both horizontal and dive bomber attacks, although the Junkers 87 German dive bomber is not believed to have a sufficient range to make the trip from Norway's well stocked air fields.

Scattered throughout the widespread posts on Iceland are underground communication centers, connected with a hidden direction room which controls the gun fire. Gun positions are as orderly as a battleship turret. A sergeant commanding the gun crew said: "The men have done dummy drill so often they could do it in their sleep. They'll knock hell out of those krauts." Morale, always high, hit its peak December 7—Pearl Harbor Sunday. A marine from Glenside, Pa., summed it up this way: "We knew then that we'd stopped fooling around. This is what we're here for. Let 'em come."

New York Milk Costs Again Legislative Issue

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—New York milk costs, being aired in a hearing on 84 proposed amendments to federal state marketing orders, again became a legislative issue today with a Bronx assemblyman's declaration "Increased prices to milk producers do not justify increased costs to consumers."

Arthur Wachtel, a Democrat, made the assertion in connection with his introduction at Albany of two bills which would compel distributors to install uniform systems of cost accounting and require verification of dealer accounts.

Wachtel, who as an assistant attorney general was active in a 1938 investigation which reported excessive dealer profit, asserted these findings bore out his belief milk prices need not be increased. Measures similar to those introduced by Wachtel today were introduced by the assemblyman last year, but died in committee. He explained he expected wider support this year "because the war has brought increased interest in the high cost of living and profiteering."

Judgment Against DePetro

New York, Jan. 12, (Special).—Thomas and Concetta DePetro of Highland were listed as the debtors in a judgment recorded in Federal Court here today in favor of the Federal Housing Administration. The DePetros obtained a government-secured loan for house repairs and issued for it a note in the amount of $390.93 to the Cameron Lumber Co. They defaulted when $335.97 of it was still due and suit to collect the balance was instituted. The DePetros did not defend the suit.

PICK YOUR SPECTACLES

Out in a California mining camp, in the early days, there was a newspaper that was "Democratic" one year, "Republican" the next, then back to "Democratic" again. The same readers went on reading it, went on voting the way their minds and hearts directed them.

The paper, you see, had a staff of two—the EDITOR and the PRINTER. The editor was a Democrat. But by the end of the year, living up to his position as editor, he owed the Republican printer money, so he gave him the paper to edit and went to work setting type.

Every day competing merchants lay the facts, and their differing opinions about their wares, before you in the newspapers. Americans, knowing they are free to choose their OWN opinions and their OWN goods, see nothing queer or dangerous in such a live-and-let-live policy. In fact, they want to read what each merchant has to offer.

In fact, the great difference between FREE America and SLAVE Europe is this very marvel. Our basic law gives each of us the right AND THE DUTY to see things and to think and to act as our consciences and our information direct.

Your newspaper is doing its job very well indeed if it brings you ACCURATE facts and honest opinions—the more of each the better for you.

It is your job and your great privilege to agree or disagree. May we never see the time when GOVERNMENT or BUSINESS or LABOR or any "ism," "side" or "movement" tries to equip us ALL with the same rose-colored spectacles!

In another year the then-REPUBLICAN editor had gone into debt, so the trade was reversed.

The point is this: The paper printed the same FACTS year in and year out, as they happened. It printed pretty much the same opinions, too. Except on alternate years Democrats became "rascals" and Republicans became "heroes," and vice versa—to the EDITOR. Every last reader gave the reigning editor the right to see the world through his favorite color of eyeglasses.

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

SAVING RUBBER HERE

To the vast majority of us who have been of the private opinion that the deprivations suffered by the people of the war-torn countries of the old world could never happen here, there has come a sudden and a rude awakening with the announcement of strict tire rationing and cessation of the manufacturing of automobiles for ordinary civilian purposes.

It has happened here, and it has shocked a great many complacent persons in the knowledge that we are at war, and that until the Axis powers are brought to their knees we must not only be willing to sacrifice the youth of the nation, but we must be prepared to go back and live again "the good old days" of which we have heard so much.

Ahead of this nation lies dark days, but we should not forget that back of the dark clouds that overhang the nation the sun is still shining and it is only a question of time when it will again break through.

It has needed a shock to make many of us realize that war means not only fighting on the battle front, but real hardships on the home front. If such a shock bestirs us to the point of being more than willing to do our bit it will have a beneficial effect on our sensibilities.

It must be admitted, however, that the new rationing will dislocate our entire method of living. Few people, without thinking carefully of the subject, will realize how deeply the automobile has penetrated our civilization and how much we depend on it.

There are few automobiles which are purely "pleasure cars." Nearly every man or woman uses his or her car for practical reasons as well as for pleasure.

According to figures obtained from the Office of Emergency Management in New York enough rubber to equip 46 airplanes with rubber is being saved this month in Ulster county through rationing of automobile tires. The average plane requires half a ton of rubber.

The local rubber saving, if put to other wartime purposes, would be approximately sufficient for the treads and cushioning of 26 medium (28-ton) tanks, or for self-sealing rubber linings for gas tanks on 37 flying fortresses, or for 25,580 gas masks.

These savings are on tires alone. Ulster county's quota of 290 tires of all types represents a decrease of 3,190 tires, averaging 14½ pounds of rubber each, or a total of 46,300 pounds. In addition, there is a reduction of 2,673 tubes from normal January sales.

The situation that now confronts the automobile driving public is a serious one in many respects. It is true that the old automobile can be patched up to run for several years, perhaps for the duration of the war, but tires wear out and it will now be difficult to replace them.

The time may not be so far distant that this nation will again become a nation of walkers and not riders.

FEAR

Terror has injured more children in Europe than bombs, says the executive director of the National Association of Day Nurseries.

"Physical protection is not enough. Too many very young children are suffering from the war of nerves. This should not be. Day nurseries are successfully cushioning possible fright by making a novel game of air raid drills, concentrating on nerve-strengthening diets and helping children lead normal, unexcited lives. Children taken care of by mothers or maids should receive the same calm, preventive treatment. No matter what parents fear, their supreme duty in 1942 will be to conceal this fear from their children."

Concealing fear from grown-ups is good, too. Melodramatic spreading of fear is one of the worst things that can happen to any community. A little of the "so what?" attitude that Londoners had to learn is useful. If you are bombed there will be nothing left to worry about, and if you are not bombed you are safe, aren't you? So why not do today's duty as of today, giving a little extra push to help the fighting forces, with money or knitting or another hour's work.

Let children and their elders both walk calmly through these days.

FLORAL FRENZY

Florists from many parts of the country, especially those from the middle west, will be contributing to the Flower Show to be held in Cleveland's Public Auditorium the third week in February. War has not halted the plans, nor should it.

There is need for tightening the belt. But when organizations announce smugly that they are not going to have any flowers in their club rooms for the duration, when individuals stop buying their usual few flowers for home good cheer over the week-end, they are not being sensible. Doesn't the florist have to eat? His children go to school and need shoes. He wants to buy defense bonds, too.

Americans are a little apt to go off half-cocked about things like this. To go from the extreme of lavish and unnecessary floral displays one month into refusing to buy a flower next month does not make sense. True, some luxuries must be cut in war time, some dispensed with. But throwing the whole financial and operating set-up of tradesmen suddenly out of gear isn't a good way to do it.

Besides—are flowers always a useless luxury? Surely a little beauty of color and growing life give a lift to the spirit. They keep people mindful of that gracious and peaceful way of life Americans are willing to fight for.

DOGGED RUSSIANS

Do we learn from history? If we did, there need have been no surprise at finding that the Russians are stubborn fighters. Frederick the Great learned that to his cost. In the Seven Years' War his victories over the Russians were so bloody that a few more such would have undone him. And of course there was Napoleon.

Often badly led, the Russian peasant in uniform, the veteran of many a struggle against a terrifying climate, has in all wars stuck to his ground and made his adversary pay dearly for gains. There is something of the bulldog in Ivan as well as in Johnny Bull.

Tens of millions of Americans, without regard to political or class bias, will second Walter Lippmann's suggestion of Wendell Willkie for director of war production.

TREATMENT FOR MASTOIDITIS

During the 1918-19 flu epidemic the number of cases of ear disturbances was very large. Mastoiditis—inflammation of the large spongy bone behind the ear—was one of the complications of flu which kept many patients in hospital for weeks with dressings—yards long—having to be packed in and removed very often. Every wound operation was deliberately kept open because free drainage was necessary.

As surgeons began reporting great success with injuries—compound fractures where a piece of the broken bone came out through the skin—by the use of the new drug sulfanilamide, its use in this severe bone infection—mastoiditis—was considered.

Dr. Geo. S. Livingston, Chicago, reports the results obtained in a series of cases where sulfanilamide was used. The report consists of acute mastoiditis in children treated since January 1, 1941, at Memorial Hospital. Before this date the surgical treatment of mastoiditis consisted of the removal of all the infected bone cells and dead tissue followed by closing the wound except for a drainage tube. The wound usually took from three to six weeks to drain, some considerably longer.

In the first group of cases, January 1 and April 1, where sulfanilamide crystals were placed in the wound, the drainage tube was also used. The wound drained as before but the average time of healing was about as long as when the sulfanilamide crystals were not used. As these results were disappointing, the second series of cases after April 1, the usual operation was performed, the wound filled with sulfanilamide crystals, and closed without leaving in the drain.

Of the thirteen cases treated thus, Dr. Livingston in the Journal of the American Medical Association, states that the average healing time of 11 of the 13 cases was six and four-tenths days and the appearance of the wound in all the patients was remarkable for the firm healing of the tissues.

When we think of the slow healing and the daily attention required in most cases of mastoiditis, this new drug—sulfanilamide—again merits honorable mention.

Diet in Buzzing Ears

In many cases it is possible to help buzzing, ringing ears—Meniere's disease—by careful attention to diet. Dr. Barton has a new leaflet available for readers entitled "Diet Suggestions in Buzzing Ears." All you have to do to obtain it is send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Barton, Times Square Station, Post Office Box 150, New York, N. Y., and ask for leaflet by name "Diet Suggestions in Buzzing Ears."

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 13, 1922.—Scarlet fever epidemic here reported on the wave.

One man was killed and six injured in Shaft No. 5 of the Shandaken tunnel, near Westkill. Kingston was still busy digging out from under the near blizzard that broke over the city two days previous.

Chris K. Loughran was elected president of the Kingston Club.

George Ennist of Washington avenue, died.

Jan. 13, 1932.—Irving Lasher of Woodstock, fatally hurt when the auto he was driving was in collision with another car at West Hurley.

Mr. Spring paid the expected visit here when thermometers on the Strand, which had been registering zero, jumped to 68 degrees above.

Josiah Smith, a former resident, died in his home in Gloversville. For many years he had been employed in the Cornell shops on the Strand.

Kingston High School defeated Newburgh at basketball in Newburgh, by a score of 32 to 29.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — Drastic streamlining of education to meet war needs and avoid the pitfalls which gave education such a setback in World War I is under way.

The wartime Magna Carta of higher education will be the 15 resolutions recently adopted by the congress of 1,000 college presidents in Baltimore. The group which will administer it and work with individual colleges and school systems will be the Office of Education wartime commission here in Washington.

Appointed by John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, at the request of Federal Security Administrator T. V. McNutt, the commission already is in high gear.

Some of the things in immediate prospect are:

1. Reduction of the college course to three and possibly two and a half years, in order to give youth its degrees and a completed education before it is called into the army or into civilian defense and wartime industries. This speedup has been going on in West Point and Annapolis for more than a year. As in the case of those institutions, six day weeks, full summer terms, and an acceleration, in all courses by stripping them of frills and non-essentials are expected to do the trick.

2. A vast expansion of military training, with full college credit for such work. There has been no hint that colleges and universities again will be converted into full-time military institutions as they were by the Student Army Training Corps in the last war. However, if it develops later that such a drastic move is necessary, the nucleus of the S. A. T. C. will be ready to again turn every fraternity house into a barracks and college campuses into armed camps.

3. A far greater emphasis on physical education with a view to building every youth into the tough physical specimen that can stand the rigors of war in the field that a million young men have been deferred in the draft because of physical deficiencies has been considered alarming. An analysis of these deficiencies already is being made and physical education courses will be revamped throughout to remedy them in the youngsters coming up.

4. An expansion of the Civilian Pilot Training Program and a greater emphasis of turning out both pilots and aviation mechanics. This year, 700 colleges are taking advantage of the Civilian Pilot Training Program. The P. T. P. and turning out pilots with good basic training at the rate of 30,000 a year. No goal has been set but it is known that the C. A. A. and the military forces would like to see this doubled and tripled.

Plans to provide financial aid to college threatened with bankruptcy and closing because of curtailed enrollment. And measures to combat the growing shortage of teachers. The draft and war industries already have taken a thin slice out of enrollment and teaching staffs in high schools and colleges.

6. There will, of course, be a greater concentration on vocational education to meet the needs of a nation at war. This program is already far advanced. It is likely now that the government will be asked to finance many courses, such as engineering, physics and chemistry, and that the colleges will become designated training centers for such Army and Navy personnel as the engineering corps, the chemical warfare service and the quartermaster corps.

7. The possible establishment of nursery schools on a nationwide scale to care for the small children of mothers who are in industry or war work.

Add to all this the widespread civilian morale service which is gearing education from kindergarten to doctor's thesis to the conversion from a peacetime culture to wartime economy, thought and service. The three r's are now spelling WAR.

Many "Special Facts" Just Coming to Light Which Were Not Known During Coal Strike

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 13 — Three weeks before the tragedy of Pearl Harbor, the C. I. O. was conducting a strike in many of the coal mines of America. As to the captive coal mines owned by the steel companies, there was plainly a dispute. But in the commercial mines, whose owners had already granted a closed shop many months before, tens of thousands of miners engaged in what was termed an "unauthorized strike."

No dispute existed between the owners of the commercial mines and the C. I. O. but a serious interruption to the nation's fuel supply was accomplished just the same. A strange sequel to that episode has just come to light. Although the C. I. O. never officially or publicly admitted that it had brought about the sympathetic strike in the commercial mines, now when the employers seek to invoke the penalty for unauthorized strikes, the C. I. O. says the strike was authorized and that their position was sustained by an arbitration board appointed by the President of the United States.

Too often those who differ with the labor union technique that makes scraps of paper of formal contracts, are charged with omitting some extenuating circumstance, but the record in this case is written over the signature of the C. I. O. national union executives in a letter to owners of the commercial mines. It says, first of all, that the so-called Appalachian agreement, signed June 19, 1941 has in it a protective wage clause which gives the United Mine Workers "the right to call and maintain strikes throughout the entire Appalachian area when necessary to preserve and maintain the integrity and competitive parity of the agreement."

Now it appears that the C. I. O. claims it gave notice, under date of September 16, 1941, of its intention to invoke this clause. It will be recalled that subsequent to September 16th, the President intervened and the captive issue was laid before the National Defense Mediation Board.

At no time thereafter, when the subject was taken up by a government mediation agency, was any cognizance taken of a strike call alleged to have been given to workers in commercial mines, but the C. I. O. says of its notice of September 16th: "This constituted reasonable notice by the international union. Later the strike was approved by the policy committee of the international union. Finally, our position was fully sustained by a board of arbitration appointed by the President of the United States. Therefore, I am protesting that the fines illegally assessed our membership be refunded without delay."

This is the type of evasion of responsibility which makes disinterested persons lose confidence in the forthrightness of some labor union heads today. It is the sort of thing which is losing friends for the labor movement and causing management to refuse to sit down together with the C. I. O. in making of production plans wherein labor and management are supposed to share responsibility.

Will the owners of the commercial mines accept the set of claims put up by the C. I. O. in its attempt to conceal the fact that it authorized a strike which at no time during the period of the strike would it admit having called? And can Congress sit by and see the closed shop union shop used to enforce this kind of one-sided interpretation of a contract with employers?

Incidentally, the C. I. O. comes in for a scathing denunciation by Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., a New Dealer, who has just been confirmed as U. S. District Judge for eastern Massachusetts. Mr. Wyzanski, was one of the public members of the National Defense Mediation Board which refused to grant the compulsory union shop in the captive mine controversy. In a speech delivered last night in Chicago, he said:

"I have no intention of reviewing the coal dispute. But I may say this, the problem there was complicated by special facts. The question at stake was whether a coal miner should be required to join a union which on its record has shown irresponsibility by calling strikes in a great emergency, which had collected large sums for political purposes and activities having no relation to coal mining; which was prepared to exercise a complete unregulated labor monopoly throughout the whole of the coal industry; and which on the record showed no need to have a union shop to preserve its existence. In denying the political purposes and activities, the board was governed by a large extent by these special facts."

It would seem that many "special facts" are just coming to light which were not known during the coal strike of last autumn. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Income Tax

Your Federal Income Tax No. 8
SAVE FOR TAXES

To make it easier for taxpayers to meet the increased taxes required by the National Defense Program, the Treasury Department is offering for sale two series of notes, both dated August 1, 1941, and maturing August 1, 1943.

In January of each year two new series will be provided, so that a taxpayer can always purchase notes during the entire year in which he is receiving his income for use in payment of taxes due the following year. The reason for the 2-year note is to permit a taxpayer, if he so desires, to begin saving in January of one year and continue through that year for his taxes due the following year.

All notes are sold at par and accrued interest. When presented in payment of income taxes they will be received at par and accrued interest up to and including the month in which such taxes are paid. Interest will not accrue beyond the maturity of the notes. If not presented in payment of income taxes, they will be redeemed for cash under certain specified conditions at the purchase price paid for notes. In other words, the taxpayer if he redeems the notes for cash, gets back just the amount he paid.

Complete information about these Treasury notes will be found in a Treasury Department circular available at local banks, Federal Reserve banks and branches, or Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, Jan. 12 — The Hasbrouck Engine Co. has purchased three $100 Defense Bonds.

A number in the village contributed to the war fund and also to the "Boys at Camp" fund. Nineteen tickets were sold in the village for the Red Cross benefit card party also the ladies contributed sandwiches. Mrs. Russell Maurer acted as hostess from her place in Mrs. Walker.

William Krom was transferred from Fort Dix to Belvoir, Va.

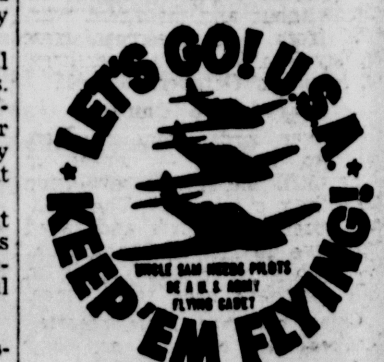

The Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. C. Evans Thursday and the auxiliary at the home of Miss Anna Cole Tuesday.

South Rondout, Jan. 13 — The Boy Scouts called on the householders of the village with a questionnaire in connection with civilian defense. All are asked to have the questionnaires ready when the scouts return for them.

A food sale and coffee social will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Maurer on Thursday afternoon, January 15. Orders for baked goods may be given to any of the members of the Methodist Church Auxiliary.

A few coal banks are still out and are asked to be returned as soon as possible as the cold weather has been a strain on the coal for the Methodist Church.

Exiles Pledge to Punish Guilty for Reigns of Terror

London, Jan. 13 (AP)—The governments of the eight Axis-occupied nations and the Free French pledged themselves today to post-war punishment of occupation officers and their accomplices for what Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, described as the "oppression and brutality" imposed on Europe.

"The quislings also have little reason to look to the future with any hope," Eden asserted at their conference opening session around a red plush covered table in St. James's Palace.

Eden said the session, convened on the initiative of the government in exile, would show that the "German so-called 'new order' in Europe is a sham."

"Today's meeting," he said, "is also a message of encouragement sent out to the oppressed populations of Europe."

In a solemn ceremony, the governments-in-exile of The Netherlands, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Norway, Greece, Luxembourg, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Free French committee laid the groundwork for post war machinery which may someday doom Axis officials and soldiers judged to have behaved contrary to the "accepted ideas concerning acts of war."

Prime ministers and foreign ministers bitterly assailed Germany and Italy for mass executions, mass expulsions, execution of hostages and massacres in their respective countries.

Each then signed a resolution pledging his government to try responsible persons and their accomplices.

The resolution mentioned articles of the Hague Convention of 1907, which lists collective punishment of occupied countries as contrary to International Law, as a guide for the trials.

The United States, Britain, China and Soviet Russia sent observers to the conference but did not participate.

GRANGE NEWS

New Paltz Grange

The regular session of Huguenot Grange met in Grange Hall January 3 with a large attendance. The Lecturer, Mrs. R. Forshaw, had planned a fine entertainment. It was also past masters night. Past Masters present were: Abram E. Jansen, Fred DuBois, Sr., Irving C. Barnes, Fred DuBois, Jr., and John Jansen. A. E. Jansen and Fred DuBois Sr., gave some interesting accounts of how the Grange had been handled through the years. The entertainment feature of the program was the novel way in which Mrs. Harold DuBois presented "Little Old Lady." Mrs. Millard Roosa was a charming "Little Old Lady" in lavender and lace. Miss Marion DuBois accompanied at the piano while Mrs. Harold DuBois sang. Mrs. DuBois and Miss Marion DuBois also sang "Carolina Lullaby," a recreation number in which a number of young Grangers took part brought the lecture hour to a close. Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Grimm, the host and hostess for the evening, with their committee, served refreshments. A social hour followed. A dart ball game and card games were also enjoyed.

Milk Production

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—New York's 1941 milk production reached 6,674,000,000 pounds, 3.6 per cent above 1940, with heavy grain feeding, mild fall weather and high quality hay and silage as factors, the state agriculture department reports.

What It Means

China Comes of Age

By JOHN GROVER

AP Feature Service Writer

China, the backward kid from across the international tracks who had to fight for education and life, graduated at the top of the 1942 class this week as a full-fledged world power.

The anti-Axis alliance acknowledged China's power when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was named commander-in-chief of Allied operations in the China theatre. Events of the past fortnight justify the recognition.

China massed large, veteran forces in Kwangsi and Yunnan Provinces, a menace to the Japanese in Indo-China. They routed the Japs at Changsha with 50,000 casualties. Chinese forces were reported giving increasing help to the defense of Singapore.

Welcome Aid

This was concrete and welcome aid for the hard-pressed Allies. That China still had aid to give after taking Japan's Sunday punches since 1937 attests the power and resources of the Chinese nation.

Schoolbooks always stress the rapid rise of Japan from feudal country to world power from 1853 to 1905. China's rate of progress makes the Japanese look strictly minor league.

China did it in 30 years. Japan had the cooperation of all the other powers except for the brief Russo-Japanese War. China has had to resist Japanese aggression from without and insurgent warlords from within almost from the day Sun Yat Sen overthrew the Manchus October 10, 1911.

Carved Up China

The war lords—some of them had Jap backing—carved up China until the second revolution threw them out in 1927. The Japanese seized Manchuria and razed the native quarter of Shanghai in 1932. They came back again in 1937, and have been there since.

China has had little respite for peaceful building on the

Argentina Now Looms As Stumbling Block

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 13 (AP)—Argentina's reluctance to enter into any military alliances promised today to be the major obstacle to unanimous adoption of an anti-Axis front by the 21 American republics.

A highly-placed official, here for the Pan American conference opening Thursday, declared that 19 of the Republics were ready to approve a declaration severing all relations with the Axis powers, and a 20th—Chile—is expected to fall in line when her delegation arrives today.

The official made it clear that Argentina's attitude alone was in doubt, and diplomatic circles eagerly awaited the outcome of a meeting between U. S. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Argentine Foreign Minister Ruiz Guinazu which they hoped would clarify the situation.

Welles, who arrived yesterday at the head of the Washington delegation, voiced confidence in the success of the Pan American conference and said he had no doubt it would result in decisions rendering "this hemisphere impregnable from attack." The Argentine was expected to arrive here by plane today.

Credit Group Has Annual Meeting

Stockholders of M. P. C. A. Meet at Middletown

Three hundred enthusiastic farmers, wives, and guests met for the eighth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Middletown Production Credit Association at the North Congregational Church, Saturday, January 10.

John L. Schoonmaker, vice president, presided. During the morning session, Samuel B. Phelps of Walden presented a very complete report for the directors. There being a good reserve set up to protect stockholders, one outstanding act was to recommend a drastic reduction in service fees. W. Harrison Wheeler reported for the executive committee and explained the care taken to help the members build a strong permanent credit rating and showed how an established rating simplified the procedure for future loans.

Mr. Wheeler also stated that $850,000 in production credit financing had been provided to 550 farmers in Orange, Ulster, Rockland and Sullivan counties during the year. Most of the funds borrowed at 4½ per cent was used to do business on a cash basis. Charles L. Boyd, secretary-treasurer, presented charts showing a net gain for the year of $8,298 with a total surplus for reserves of $60,710. The year's business closed with $539,000 outstanding.

The meeting recessed at noon for dinner, served by the ladies of the church in their usual good way.

J. Blake Winter reported for the nominating committee and Dewey Carr of Ferrisville was elected a director for three years in the place of Christian H. Bunker, deceased.

Chester C. DuMond, a former director of this association and now president of the New York State Farm Bureau and a member of the Executive Committee of the National Farm Bureau, gave an interesting instructive talk on the present farm prices problem being discussed in Washington at this time. He urged that all farmers be linked up with some strong farmer organization so as to combine the strength much needed at this time.

Gordon Cameron, a representative from the Production Credit Corp. of Springfield, spoke of the way this short-term system of loaning at a low interest rate had benefited the farmer and emphasized the fact that production credit was making an effort to meet the farmers immediate needs through the already established sound basis.

City Hall Now Getting New Fluorescent Lamps

Work of installing the new fluorescent lamps in the city hall was started on Monday by a crew of WPA workers, and work is progressing on the installation of the new lamps, which are replacing the lamps used in the old installation. There is a total of 80 fluorescent lamps to be installed in the city hall. The type chosen is known as the "Diplomat" and is manufactured by the General Electric Co.

The new lighting system is being installed as one of the city's WPA projects.

The lecturer had spoken for two hours. "I shall not keep you much longer," he said. "I am afraid I have spoken at very great length. There is no clock in the room and I must apologize for not having a watch with me."

A voice from the rear interrupted. "There's a calendar on the wall behind you, mister."

No one hates you so bad as he for whom you have done a thousand favors until you could not continue them.

Business Man—Oh, Miss Jones, get my broker, quick!

Miss Jones—Yes, Sir. Stock or pawn.

Voter—Senator, you promised me a job.

Senator—But there are no jobs open.

Voter—Well, you said you'd give me one.

Senator—Tell you what I'll do: I'll appoint a commission to investigate why there are no jobs, and you can work on that.

If husbands were taken out on approval, doubtless many of them would be sent back.

Two travelers in Ireland, returning home late one night, lost their way.

Said one, "We are in a cemetery; this is a gravestone."

"Shose is it?" asked the other.

The more sober of the two, having struck a match, said "I don't know, but he seems to have lived to a good old age—175."

"See, can you read the name?" insisted his companion.

Another match having been lit—"I don't know him, some fellow called Miles from Dublin."

Just as we are getting sure of the spelling of names connected with the war, the conflict shifts somewhere else.

Fond mother—Where did you get that black eye, Harold? Didn't I tell you that good little boys never fight?

Harold—Yes, mother, and I believed you. I thought he was a good little boy and hit him, and then I found out he wasn't.

Shuffle the letters of A. Hitler around and you get a true description of him, "The Liar."

Missus—You say you worked for the Van Twillers. Can you prove that?

New Maid—Well, mum; I can show you some spoons and things with their initials on them.

If you want a woman to believe you, tell her she is beautiful.

Teacher—Is pants singular or plural?

Pupil—If a man wears 'em its plural.

Teacher—Well, if he does not—?

Pupil—Then, it's singular.

NO TIME FOR LOVE

Chapter II
The Beachcomber

"I HOPE your aunt comes back on her way to New York," Margot got up. "Meanwhile, you must have some fun. Shall we take a dip now?"

"I'd like it," said Lavinia. Margot Linen was nice. She was rather like the two or three girls at Armworth's with whom Lavinia had something in common.

They ran down to the beach, and plunged in.

"You swim well!" Margot said—when they had been in the water a little while. "You could give me a few pointers."

There's nothing wrong with your swimming," said Lavinia. "You do it with a lot of ease."

"I don't feel at ease," said Margot. "I tremble inside, you know, butterflies of the tummy. She walked out upon the beach, and Lavinia followed her. By the way, there's a bridge tournament tonight—to raise money for the Greeks. Everyone's playing. You'll join in, won't you?"

"I'd like to help the Greeks," said Lavinia, smiling. "But I'm afraid my bridge is pretty terrible."

"Don't let that worry you," Margot said. "There are plenty of bad players. But if you play bridge as well as you swim, there's nothing to worry about."

Lavinia caught up her beach robe. Margot caught up her way and they moved off down the sandy stretch.

"A run along the beach will warm us up," Margot said. "Come on!"

They struck off together. The wind swept Lavinia's dark hair back from her face. She felt a sudden sense of freedom, a wild and unexplainable desire to go on and on—against the wind—against the water.

"We'd better be getting back now," Margot said, when they had gone some distance. "This section of the beach is pretty forbidden."

Lavinia looked about her. It did seem quite different from the beach nearer the Inn. There was the remains of an old pier—its blackened legs broken and irregular. Further on could be seen three or four cheaply constructed cottages—dwellings that were apparently unoccupied.

"And there's that young man again," Margot said suddenly. "What young man?" Lavinia asked.

"No one knows much about him, really," Margot answered. "But he lives in one of those cottages—and sticks pretty well to himself."

"A sort of beachcomber, you mean?"

"Perhaps," Margot waited until the young man had disappeared from view. "Only he does look like something out of Hollywood. I wonder what he'd look like all dressed up. He never wears anything but a pair of bathing trunks, or slacks and a sweater."

"You make him sound like something in a book," Lavinia remarked. Then she changed the subject. Men didn't interest her. Last of all a man who was apparently something of a human derelict. "Let's get back to the Inn," she said. "I'm hungry, and I've got to get off some letters."

"This air does give one an appetite," said Margot. "I'll race you."

The two girls sped along the sand. They did not look back. So of course they didn't see the young "human derelict" staring after them—an odd expression in his deep blue eyes.

Bridge Game

THAT evening was a gala one at the Inn. The ballroom was decorated with Greek, British and American flags, and a number of guests wore Greek attire. Several small boys and girls were dressed as Greek children, and sold candies and favors from trays suspended about their necks by ribbons.

"Every table has been sold," Margot told Lavinia. "One hundred and sixty people at one dollar each. That ought to be a little! Then there's the money for favors and candy. They were donated by a guest who's in the wholesale candy business—and the management of the Inn is giving the prizes."

"Then the entertainment ought to bring in over two hundred dollars, oughtn't it?" said Lavinia.

"At least that," said Margot. She looked at Lavinia admiringly. "When in doubt bid low—trumps!"

"You certainly do make a picture in that crimson chiffon. I love it!"

Lavinia smiled. "Thanks!" she said. "I'll have to confess however that I feel about half dressed. Tailored things are more in my line."

"Come on now," said Margot, and I'll introduce you to the three people you're playing with. Two of them are fairly good players, and the other one isn't."

"Then that even things up," Lavinia laughed. "I'm one of the 'isn'ts'. But I've got my fingers crossed."

"Don't work! You'll get along all right," Margot took her arm. "Tell me something," Lavinia said just before they reached the table where she was to play—and where now sat a rather forbidding looking middle-aged couple, and a rather insignificant appearing gentleman. "A two bid is a demand, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Margot. "Only a two no-trump opening bid isn't always a demand. Of course if you have anything at all, you should respond."

"I see. And if my partner opens with a two-demand, and I've nothing, then I bid two no-trumps."

"Yes. That's a denial. However, some people play differently. You and the others can decide on what conventions you want to recognize," Margot nodded to the couple and the man, and then introduced Lavinia. "Miss Prentiss seems to feel a slight attack of stage-fright, so don't be too hard on her."

"Stage-fright?" said the female half of the forbidding couple.

"Yes," said Lavinia. "Wildly pounding heart—trembling knees—terrible nervousness."

"Oh!"

"Does that mean you don't—er—play so well?" asked the male half of the forbidding couple.

"I'm afraid it does," Lavinia confessed.

The man and the woman—who were a Mr. and Mrs. Masters—exchanged distressed glances. The rather insignificant man seemed to lose some of his insignificance.

"Then I shan't feel too scared myself," he said. He held Lavinia's chair for her. "I play terribly—so perhaps your playing will seem like Mrs. Culbertson's by comparison."

"Thank you," Lavinia said. "I feel better already."

"Don't take it too seriously," Margot told them. "You've only got to play a couple of hours—and then we dance. 'Anyway, it's for a good purpose—so what?'"

Lavinia groaned inwardly. "Two hours?" It seemed like an eternity. But she gritted her teeth bravely, and picked up her cards. She went at it with all she had—and that, alas, was pretty bad.

And she knew then that if the two hour period seemed like an eternity to her, it must seem like perfect bliss to Mr. and Mrs. Masters. It was an experience she would never forget—and one which Mr. and Mrs. Masters would probably look back upon in sheer agony.

Flight

THEN, out of the darkness of the fearful experience, came a voice. It announced that the bridge playing party was at an end, and the scores from the tables would be gathered up and figured.

"I needn't ask what table got the lowest score," said Mrs. Masters with poorly concealed bitterness.

Lavinia felt like something sinking into a dark hole, and she almost fell upon Margot's neck, when she came over to the table.

"Come on, Miss Prentiss," she said. "I'll introduce you to some of the young men—now that dancing is going to start."

"Thank you," said Lavinia. She said good-bye to the others, and followed Margot across the ballroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters watched her. "If she doesn't dance any better than she plays bridge," said Mrs. Masters, "heaven help her partners."

"They'll probably have to visit chiropractors tomorrow," said Mr. Masters.

Margot introduced Lavinia to a tall, dark young man, whose black hair shone like patent leather, and Lavinia felt her courage fast ebbing away. The man was a typical dancing man if ever there was one! And she was right. He danced perfectly—and he did his best with her.

But perfect as he was as a dancer, he couldn't seem to keep in step with the music, not when Lavinia didn't co-operate.

But, as in the case with the bridge, she gritted her teeth and gave the dancing all that she had, which was even worse than what she had given the bridge.

"Sorry!" said the young man as they got out of step for the twentieth time.

"My fault," said Lavinia generously.

"No mine."

"Let's not argue the point!" Lavinia laughed hollowly, and then the laugh froze as she saw her partner signaling. It was when he was dancing her close to a tall mirror. Signaling for someone to come and rescue him! An S.O.S. in a ballroom! And it was happening to her. She wanted to scream, she wanted to slap the man's face, she wanted to run off and hide her own face.

But there was no time for any of those things she wanted to do, for the man signaled was evidently a friend as well as a hero. He came forward, knowing full well probably just what he was getting himself into, and bravely rescued the slick-headed dancing man who was stuck.

"May I?" he said, smiling at Lavinia.

"Why, of course!" said Lavinia, also smiling—and remembering scenes she had watched in the movies.

She moved off with her new partner. It was worse than before.

"Sorry!"

"No mine!"

"Well, you've done your rescuing act," said Lavinia with forced lightness. "And now you're free."

She turned, and hurried away.

Honesty's Still Best Policy

Fremont, O. (AP)—An unusual plea by John Lewis won him leniency on a non-support charge. Asked what plea he wished to enter, Lewis told Judge A. V. Baumann: "Well, judge, if I plead guilty, I'll have to go to jail, and if I plead not guilty, I wouldn't exactly be telling the truth." Judge Baumann gave Lewis time to think it over, and the defendant later was discharged when he reached settlement terms with the prosecutor.

No Stand Taken On Veterans Bills

Bills Are Referred to a Committee Without Recommendation

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—House approved proposals to pay veterans of the last World War and their widows and dependents an estimated $10,000,000,000 in pensions in the years to come failed today to obtain either approval or disapproval of a senate finance subcommittee.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Clark D-Mo., referred the two bills to the full committee without recommendation.

One bill would grant $40 a month pensions to World War veterans when they reached the age of 65. The veterans administration has estimated that this would cost approximately $5,000,000,000 between 1942 and 1974. The bureau predicted that no pensioners would remain after 1974.

The other proposal would pay dependent widows of veterans a $20 a month pension. This would be increased according to the number of dependent children. The full compensation could not exceed $36 a month. The total of these payments also was figured at $5,000,000,000.

Survivors Report Large Steamship Sunk Off Coast

An East Coast Canadian port, Jan. 13 (AP)—A large steamship has been torpedoed and sunk by a submarine 160 miles off the Nova Scotia coast within the last 36 hours and survivors reaching here estimated today that 94 lives had been lost. Eighty-nine were saved.

The sinking was nearer the North American coast than any hitherto reported.

Of those rescued 66 were Chinese and 23 were white. Four white crewmen and about 90 Chinese crewmen and passengers were lost. Most of those lost were victims of near zero weather while afloat on rafts and small boats.

Although Japanese submarines have operated within sight of the United States west coast and submarines have been reported with in sight of Newfoundland, this is the closest sinking that has occurred in the battle of the Atlantic.

Japs Take Tarkan, Dutch Destroy Oil

which had broken through German lines for an advance along a wide sector.

The writer told of 'remarkable' new Russian tactics being employed in harrying the Germans.

Anglo-American reinforcements were en route to the new Far East battle zone.

Simultaneously, British dispatches declared cryptically that an important announcement could be expected at any moment which might change the Malayan situation considerably in Britain's favor.

Taken together, these seemed to indicate that powerful Allied counter-blows may soon be struck.

Washington military observers further pointed out that the Mikado's invasion hordes, striking in Malaya, China, the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies, had now spread out dangerously and become vulnerable to a concerted Allied counter-stroke.

Dutch Fight Bravely

Authoritative quarters said the small Dutch garrison 'fought bravely for two days' until Japanese sea-borne and parachute troops 'literally overran the place.' As many as 20,000 Japanese were said unofficially to have been thrown into the assault.

The garrison's chief function, these quarters said, was to hold the tiny island long enough to wreck its oil wells, whose product is so rich it can be piped directly into ships for use.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said Japanese troops also captured Kakas airdrome at Menado, chief port of Minahasa Peninsula, Celebes Island, across the Celebes Sea from Borneo.

The Japanese thrust into Celebes, a part of the fabulously rich Dutch Indies archipelago, indicated that Tokyo's war lords may be aiming at an early invasion of Australia, with the stepping-stone island of Timor, midway between Celebes and Australia, as the next objective.

Some observers in Washington even envisaged the grim possibility that the United Nations might be forced back to Australia before a major counter-offensive can be launched in the five-week-old conflict.

In the Philippine theater, Tokyo press dispatches asserted Japanese troops had won control of the gateway to the Bataan Peninsula and declared that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American-Filipino forces were making their last desperate stand.

Japanese front-line reports said Japanese artillery and planes were heavily bombarding American positions at the foot of Mount Natib and along the coast, with the roar of artillery audible in Manila 27 miles across the bay.

Japanese troops were said to be attacking fiercely under cover of the artillery barrage.

British troops seeking to check the eight-mile-a-day advance of Japanese invaders of Malaya dug in on a new defense line 150 miles north of Singapore under hammering by Rising Sun bombers.

The new line was hinged north of Seremban, 35 miles southeast of Kuala Lumpur, capital of the Federated Malay States, which the British had left shrouded in the smoke of a scorched earth retreat.

A correspondent of Reuters, British news agency, described the removal of men and supplies from Kuala Lumpur as 'one of the most magnificent feats in the history of this campaign—a nine-hour job accomplished "almost without mishap."'

Russia Recaptures Ore

Russia's armies were unofficially reported today to have recaptured the key rail city of Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow, where a force of 200,000 Germans was believed virtually encircled by the southern claw of a giant Soviet pincer aimed at Smolensk.

The British Exchange Telegraph agency quoted Berlin sources as saying Adolf Hitler already had moved his field headquarters from Smolensk, 210 miles west of Moscow, to a city in southern Russia.

A London broadcast said the B.B.C. "understands unofficially" that Soviet troops had retaken Orel, while other Red army forces driving northwest from Kaluga, 110 miles southwest of Moscow, were reported more than halfway on their 90-mile trek to Vyazma, on the Moscow-Smolensk road.

In the north, Hitler's high command admitted that the battered German armies had been thrown back to the Valdai hills, the upper starting-point of last October's German drive against Moscow, which the fuhrer boasted would be the "last great, decisive victory" of 1941.

The Nazi high command also reported quickening action on the southern (Ukraine) front, where the Red armies of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko are driving to recapture Kharkov, the Russian "Pittsburgh."

German troops on reconnaissance raids east of Kharkov were reported to have killed 219 Russians and captured 93.

On the North African front, Hitler and his Axis ally, Premier Mussolini, suffered a new blow as British troops were officially reported to have recaptured the desert town of Salum, where Egyptian-Libyan frontier, where Axis forces had held out as a threat to communications of the British counter-invasion into Libya.

More than 300 miles to the west, British vanguards have reached the road Frol el Agheila, on the Gulf of Sirte, to Marada, a desert city 70 miles to the south, along which general line the enemy appears to be preparing to make a "stand," middle east headquarters said.

Amid these reverses in Russia and Libya, Hitler was reported sending heavy German reinforcements into southern Italy for an attack on Malta, British island stronghold in the central Mediterranean.

Badly needing a victory to bolster his tattered prestige, the Nazi fuhrer apparently looked on Malta as a "ripe plum" ready to

Returns to Camp

Corp. Thomas J. Kelly has returned to camp after completing a short furlough with his family.

Corp. Kelly is the son of Joseph H. Kelly of 18 Spruce street. He is attached to the 18th C. (A. A.).

There also was the possibility, of course, that Hitler feared a British thrust into Italy once the North African campaign is ended and was pouring German reinforcements into Italy to stiffen Fascist resistance against any such attack.

Expect Attack on Malta

The London Daily Mail said in a Madrid dispatch that German troops concentrated at points in Italy from Brindisi to Syracuse were expected from within 10 days to three weeks to attack Malta, 35-mile-square island whose forces have destructively attacked attempts to bolster Axis troops in Libya with men and supplies.

The Daily Express said that R.A.F. observers had noted German reinforcements massing in western parts of occupied France and in Norway since Adolf Hitler took personal command of his armed forces December 19, suggesting he "may have sent his troops to these two countries to be prepared for a possible invasion from Britain."

A special Berlin correspondent for the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the German high command had confirmed reports of several changes in the German leadership on the Russian front, but declined to give tactical reasons to list them.

Retribution for Quislings and Axis officials responsible for terroristic regimes in occupied nations of Europe was pledged by representatives of nine countries today at St. James' Palace in London.

The governments in exile of the Netherlands, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Norway, Greece, Luxembourg, Poland and Czechoslovakia and the Free French adopted a resolution declaring that they would seek out, try and execute sentence upon ruthless occupation authorities.

Germans and Italians were denounced for mass executions, use of forced labor, wholesale imprisonments and mass expulsions. These collective punishments were declared contrary to international law.

The representatives pledged to "determine in the spirit of international solidarity to see to it that (a) those guilty and responsible, whatever their nationality, are sought for, handed over to justice and judged; (b) that sentences pronounced are carried out."

Kiwanis Installation Dinner-Dance Thursday

Thursday evening promises to be an unusual and pleasant affair for the Kiwanis Club will hold its installation dinner-dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at which time Henry D. Jarrold, the new president and his efficient staff, will be installed.

A special treat is promised in the visit of Governor Edward A. Tamm, who will be the guest speaker. The officers will be installed by Lieutenant Governor Donald W. Lake.

Attractive music will be rendered and all members and their families are expected to enjoy this unusual affair.

Train Delayed

The early morning train on the West Shore Railroad which arrives here about 6 o'clock and is familiarly known as the "Paper Train," was delayed this morning due to a freight train which was stalled on the line below Newburgh. The train carrying the New York papers arrived in this city about 8:30 o'clock. Mail deliveries in Kingston this morning were more than an hour later than usual due to the delay.

W. P. Maloney Asks Chance to Testify In 'Perjury' Case

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—William P. Maloney, special assistant to the Attorney General, asked to be allowed to testify in District Court today to "disprove" a charge that he "planted" evidence against George Hill, second secretary to Rep. Fish R-N.Y.). Hill is charged with perjury.

The offer was rejected after a conference of lawyers with Justice F. Dickinson Letts.

Hill is charged with falsely telling a district grand jury investigating Nazi propaganda activities that he did not order certain filled mailbags placed in a storeroom used by Fish and also with falsely denying that he knew George Sylvester Viereck, a registered German agent.

Yesterday Maloney, prosecuting the case, reached in one of the mailbags in court and pulled out an envelope franked by former Representative Thorkelson of Montana and read to the jury a part of its contents—a purported interview with Hitler.

"I'm willing to say that the Thorkelson speech was planted there," shouted John J. O'Connor, counsel for Hill. The bag had been in the Department of Justice.

O'Connor told Justice Letts this morning that overnight he searched the mailbag and did not find another Thorkelson speech.

Maloney then said he wanted to take the stand and tell how in 1941, with a witness before the bags were allegedly put in the storeroom, he went to the storage space. At this point Justice Letts interrupted him and he gave no other details.

The mailbags in evidence allegedly came from the office of Prescott Dennett, secretary-treasurer of the Island for War Debts Committee, which the government contends was subsidized by Viereck.

Three employees of the house postoffice testified yesterday that Hill ordered "a rush pickup" of the bags shortly after Dennett was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury.

O'Connor has repeatedly demanded to see the testimony of Dennett about Hill before the Grand Jury and was given a copy this morning, after which court recessed to permit him time to study the document.

The government attorneys expressed hope of finishing their case today.

Kiwanis Installation Dinner-Dance Thursday

Thursday evening promises to be an unusual and pleasant affair for the Kiwanis Club will hold its installation dinner-dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at which time Henry D. Jarrold, the new president and his efficient staff, will be installed.

A special treat is promised in the visit of Governor Edward A. Tamm, who will be the guest speaker. The officers will be installed by Lieutenant Governor Donald W. Lake.

Attractive music will be rendered and all members and their families are expected to enjoy this unusual affair.

Train Delayed

The early morning train on the West Shore Railroad which arrives here about 6 o'clock and is familiarly known as the "Paper Train," was delayed this morning due to a freight train which was stalled on the line below Newburgh. The train carrying the New York papers arrived in this city about 8:30 o'clock. Mail deliveries in Kingston this morning were more than an hour later than usual due to the delay.

Dr. Douw S. Myers Sued for $100,000

Malpractice Alleged in Care of Boy's Arm

An action to recover $100,000 was moved for trial in Supreme Court Monday afternoon and continued today before Justice Russell and a jury. Harry Castiglione, eight-year-old son of Salvatore Castiglione, seeks to recover that sum from Dr. Douw S. Myers, alleging that complications which set in following a break of the lad's arm when he fell from a tree-saw were caused by negligence or malpractice on the part of the attending physician.

Salvatore Castiglione, East Kingston musician who is employed in the Ellenville school system as a music instructor, brings the action as guardian.

The jury was completed Monday afternoon and the opening remarks were made by counsel but when court opened this morning one of the jurors, Mr. J. Adis, was ill and another jury was selected on stipulation by counsel. The case then proceeded with Mr. Castiglione on the stand as the first witness.

He said that on Sunday, September 8, 1940, his son had fallen from a tree-saw in his yard and fractured his arm. The injury was attended by Dr. Myers but later complications set in and he charges that a few days later circulation was stopped in the arm and eventually it became necessary to amputate the finger tips of the lad because of stoppage of circulation.

Mr. Castiglione testified that when the lad was brought to the local hospital to have the fracture reduced, the lad was advised to remain at the hospital but he refused to stay and Dr. Myers finally said the lad might return home and come to the office for treatment.

The witness said a few days after the fracture had been reduced and blue but Dr. Myers said the condition might be expected. On Thursday following the accident Dr. Myers found no pulse in the hand and had the lad taken to the hospital for treatment and called in another physician.

Dr. Boice of Poughkeepsie was called in later and Dr. Ruggiero of Ellenville was consulted and the case was referred to Dr. Stella of New York. Later the elbow became stiff and the lad lost the tips of his fingers. Several months later Dr. Myers had the lad referred to Dr. Krida of New York after being under treatment for some time to eliminate the stiffness of the elbow joint.

Mr. Castiglione claims permanent injuries. John A. Bonomi appears for the plaintiff and William J. McArthur is attorney of record for defendant with Mr. Hayes and N. LeVan Haver as trial counsel.

Mr. Castiglione testified that Dr. Myers had treated the lad for some time and when approached as to damages and threatened with a suit for damages, that Dr. Myers said the lad would be "taken care of." This caused Justice Russell to instruct the jury that any reference made by the plaintiff to any settlement prior to trial of the present action in court must not be considered by the jury and there was no elaboration as to what was the meaning of the doctor in saying the lad would be "taken care of."

The case was continued during the morning session of court.

Willkie Selected To Serve on New War Labor Board

Public: George W. Taylor, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, who will serve as vice chairman; Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and, like Davis, a member of the Defense Mediation Board; and Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University of Oregon Law School and chairman of the presidential fact-finding committee which settled the threatened nationwide railroad strike in December.

Industry: A. W. Hawkes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and of Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., Montclair, N. J.; Roger D. Lapham of San Francisco, chairman of the board of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company; E. J. McMillan, president of Standard Knitting Mills, Inc.; and Walter C. Teagle, of New York, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Lapham and Teagle served on the Defense Mediation Board.

Labor: Thomas Kennedy, of Washington, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers (C.I.O.); George Meany, New York, secretary-treasurer of the A.F.L.; R. J. Thomas, Detroit, president of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.); and Matthew Woll, Washington, vice president of the A.F.L. Meany and Kennedy served on the old board, but Kennedy resigned.

Mr. Roosevelt stipulated that the first step in settling a dispute shall be direct negotiation or procedure provided in a collective bargaining agreement. If this fails, the United States Conciliation Service will try to work out a settlement. Should this method fail to bring about a settlement, the case would be certified to the board by the secretary of labor or the board would take jurisdiction after consulting the secretary of labor.

The board then would chart a course for settlement.

Chinese Sisters Are Engaged to Wed

Topic at Sorosis

Mrs. H. Victor Kane was hostess yesterday to Sorosis at her home on Clinton avenue. The paper for the day was given by Mrs. Clarence L. Dunn and was a review of the book, "The Soong Sisters," by Emily Hahn.

This book has been advertised as the story of the three greatest women in China; Meiling Soong, Ailing Soong and Chingling Soong. The book begins during the boyhood of the father, Charlie Soong. When he was a young lad he ran away from home and came to America. In this country he was cared for by a Southern family who were able to send him through college. After finishing his education here he returned to China and married a well-educated Chinese woman.

In addition to the three sisters there is an older brother who studied at Harvard here. All of the girls attended school in China and the two oldest sisters, Ailing and Chingling were sent to this country to further their education. Although Meiling was only nine years old at that time she also came to America and finished her education in elementary schools and was graduated from Wellesley College.

The book further relates intimate episodes of the family and the story of the revolution in China. All three of the girls married into prominent families; Chingling into the family of Sun Yat-sen; Ailing in the family of Kung and the youngest, Meiling is the wife of Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese leader.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Grover Lasher on Lucas avenue, Monday, January 19 at 2:45 p. m.

Cotant-Burns Nuptials Held

Latin-American Life

Muriel Ellen Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Burns, 64 Pierpont street, Waterbury, Conn., became the bride of Harry B. Cotant, Jr., of Morristown, N. J., and Highland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Cotant, "Spring-side," Washington avenue, Highland, at the Bunker Hill Congregational Church, Waterbury, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Allan M. Fairbank, pastor of the church in the presence of 200 guests.

Norman Haver, Naugatuck, Conn., organist, played several selections before the ceremony, and the wedding marches, Miss Ruth Whitney, Waterbury, sang, "Liebestraum," Liszt and "Because" preceding the wedding. The church was decorated with calla lilies and palms with white satin ribbon on the reserved section.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in egg shell tulle made with sweetheart neckline, basque waist, full skirt and three and one half yard train. She wore a pearl necklace, an illusion net veil draped from a coronet of orange blossoms, used by her grandmother 64 years ago and her mother 25 years ago, and carried calla lilies. Mrs. John Woodruff of Waterbury attended as matron of honor and Miss Grace M. Weaving, Waterbury, was maid of honor. Both wore electric blue taffeta with sweetheart necklines, basque waists and full skirts. Mrs. Woodruff carried yellow roses, and Miss Weaving a mixed bouquet.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Helen Canfield and Connie Vealuti, Waterbury. Their gowns were of dusty rose taffeta, made similar to the other attendants and they carried Talisman roses. Their headresses were made with silk net bow in front, ribbon encircling the head, and a ten-inch ruffle of net in the back. Colors matched the gowns.

Everett Bassett, Waterbury, a classmate of Mr. Cotant at Pratt Institute was the best man and ushers included Richard V. Burton, Jr., Highland, and Margaret Burns, brother of the bride, Waterbury, and Richard Heebner, classmate of the bridegroom of Waterbury and Brooklyn.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for the wedding guests. A buffet luncheon was served. A three tier wedding cake decorated with a wedding bell and the word "Marriage" made by Mrs. Kenneth Lister, an aunt was cut by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Cotant will be at home in their cottage, Persian court, Morris Plains, N. J., after February first.

Mrs. Cotant graduated from the Crosby High School of Waterbury and has been associated with the Southern New England Telephone Co. Mr. Cotant was graduated from Oakwood School, Poughkeepsie, and Pratt Institute School of Electrical Engineering. He is a member of the Omega Iota Pi fraternity and is employed as an electrical engineer with the Bell Telephone Co., Laboratories at Whippany, N. J.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy C. Brown, Albert L. Bingham, Laura C. Marshall, Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Cotant, Mrs. John H. Parks, Richard Burton, Jr., and Henrietta Woolsey, Highland.

Century Club Studies

Latin-American Life

The members of the 20th Century Club met at the home of Mrs. T. D. Edmonston, 80 Pine street, Monday afternoon, January 12. A varied study was made of South America covering customs, music, dances and fiestas of the countries with particular emphasis on the country of Chile.

Mrs. Adam Porter's paper was read by Mrs. Maynard Mizel. Chile is an Indian name meaning "Cream of the Land." This country extends 2,500 miles and is from 250 to only a few miles wide. It is divided in four distinct divisions. The northern zone includes the rich nitrates where a large amount of American capital is invested. The second division has the copper and zinc mines and the third is agricultural. The fourth section is made up for the most part of islands in the southern tip and is rich in lumber and fish.

The Panama Canal has stimulated the progress of Chile. Mrs. R. P. Bayler gave a very interesting paper on the customs of the people. She said the Spaniards were descendants of the aristocrats and are the ruling class. They hold important government jobs and are the main land owners. They are known as the Patrones. The tenant of the farms is called Inquilino. He is illiterate, poor but is a man of strong character. Steps are now being taken to improve the living conditions of these farmers.

Mrs. G. A. Whitford said the Latin-American festivals are largely religious or national affairs. One of the most interesting fiestas is the Feast of the Invention of the Cross which is celebrated throughout the Indian region. It is a holiday night of fun and care-free gaiety. The mountains and highways are alight with bon fires and in the background stands the cross covered with many colored ornaments and floral offerings.

The Carnival of Brazil, a three-day celebration, is essentially a people's holiday and clearly shows the characteristics and gaiety of the simple kind-hearted Brazilian. The greatest attraction is the Carnival song. The last night is devoted to carnival floats depicting a series of tableaux having to do with the principal events of the year. Last year one of the towns chose the "Good Neighbor Policy" as the central theme.

Music and dances as told by Mark R. H. D. Barstow closely related to the life of the people. A new harvest or some outstanding event is celebrated with national and folk songs. The Marinera is one of the popular dances. To the sound of the guitar, harp and a box beaten with both hands, couples go through the lively steps of each dance with a handkerchief in an upraised hand waving gracefully in time with the music.

Some of the most interesting music comes from the Indians who are dressed in picturesque bright costumes. They play plaintive music on a native flute, harp, or Pan's pipes.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. E. O. Allen, January 26.

HENS LAY FOR ROYALTY

Britain's royal princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret, have registered as "backyard" poultry keepers. They have applied in London for ration coupons for the "balanced meal," which is supplied to keepers of under a dozen hens. So far they have half a dozen birds each. There was great jubilation when the first hen—one of Margaret's—laid an egg.

Popular Girl Is Sure of Etiquette

The Wedding Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: Must all the bouquets carried in a wedding procession be alike in type, or may the maid of honor, who is tall, carry a sheaf of flowers; the two bridesmaids, who are small, carry small old-fashioned bouquets, and the bride just a prayer book that has a few flowers (orange blossoms usually) tied to the ribbon markers?

Answer: There is no rule other than that the effect of the wedding party as a whole should be pleasing. Whether the effect of the sheaf which is particularly becoming to tall girls, could look other than at odds with the little stiff bouquets, is a question that depends upon whether the bridesmaids are children, or merely smaller than the maid of honor. In the former case, the idea would be all right; in the second, it seems to me that the arrangement of their flowers as well as the style of their dresses should be alike.

Meaning of an Invitation

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received an invitation to a party in honor of the young daughter of a friend of mine. Would you call this party a debutante party, and if so, what are my obligations as a friend of the mother?

Answer: It is obviously a debutante party since you would hardly be invited to a party given for the young daughter otherwise. If you are really a friend of the mother then send the girl a bouquet.

"Did I Do Something Wrong?"

That ghastly feeling that you've done something wrong, that people are laughing at you (or wincing!) may sometimes be perfectly right.

People DO look down on you when you commit some obvious breach of etiquette.

Like walking across a dance-floor alone! After a dance a girl who knows what to do asks her partner to take her back to her friends or wherever she may wish to go.

And a well-bred man, of course, will never leave a girl in the middle of the dance floor—any more than he'd give his order first in a restaurant—or neglect to offer his arm to his girl when getting out of a car.

The popular girl knows her part to receive such courtesies graciously, not with a crude "Don't bother." That's why she's dated, rushed!

You could be, too, if you were sure of the rules. Our 32-page booklet tells both girls and men how to act on dates—whether dancing, dining, motoring, at the theatre or sports events. Tells what to say in introductions, on the telephone. Discusses office and travel, etiquette, petting.

Send ten cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for your copy of "Etiquette For Young Moderns" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 65 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

You Need A New Apron

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9887

Your kitchen is neat as a pin—but how about your apron? This Marian Martin design, Pattern 9887, looks fresh-as-a-daisy and is easy to step up quickly with the step-by-step Sew Chart. It's easy to don quickly, too—the back bodice is cut all-in-one so you can slip the apron over your head and tie it in back. In front, that long center panel is graceful shaped to give you a narrow waistline—and it may have two different necklines, a square or a pointed one. This same panel may be made of contrast together with the back bodice. Bows or buttons are optional, and ruffling or ric-rac edging.

Pattern 9887 may be ordered only in sizes small (34-36), medium (38-40), large (42-44), and extra large (46-48). Small size requires 2 1/2 yards 3 1/2 inch fabric and 3 1/4 yards ric-rac.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Here's exciting news! The Marian Martin Spring Pattern Book is ready—ready and waiting to give your wardrobe a gay Spring Fling! It's the smartest collection of simple-to-use patterns we've ever presented, with stunning ensembles . . . vivacious Sportswear . . . the new softer tailored . . . gay Cottons and Prints . . . Evening and Wedding fashions . . . clothes for the Junior Miss and the Pigtail Set . . . and slimming Matron modes. Order a copy TODAY! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. ## Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Book of Social Graces," etc.)

"HOUSEWARMING" IS NOT EXACTION OF ETIQUETTE

It is scarcely likely that any of the intimate friends of the New-houses will wait to be invited to a housewarming before going to see them and the house, as it progresses toward completion. The following answer is to Mrs. Newhouse who writes me that she doesn't think it necessary to give a special housewarming party, but that her husband wants to set a day as soon as all is in readiness because he says their friends will hesitate to ask to see it all unless invited to do so.

"Housewarming" is not an exaction of etiquette, but is rather a convenient way of letting fifty or a hundred people see all of it at one time instead of having to take fifty or a hundred personally-conducted tours with each friend and neighbor who ask to see the house. However, if your house is always in perfect order and ready to be shown from attic to cellar, inside closets and out, you may enjoy taking your friends through it time after time. If on the other hand, you can't always keep every inch of it up to "inspection perfection" an especial housewarming party is the practical answer.

The Wedding Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: Must all the bouquets carried in a wedding procession be alike in type, or may the maid of honor, who is tall, carry a sheaf of flowers; the two bridesmaids, who are small, carry small old-fashioned bouquets, and the bride just a prayer book that has a few flowers (orange blossoms usually) tied to the ribbon markers?

Answer: There is no rule other than that the effect of the wedding party as a whole should be pleasing. Whether the effect of the sheaf which is particularly becoming to tall girls, could look other than at odds with the little stiff bouquets, is a question that depends upon whether the bridesmaids are children, or merely smaller than the maid of honor. In the former case, the idea would be all right; in the second, it seems to me that the arrangement of their flowers as well as the style of their dresses should be alike.

COOKBOOKLET OF THE WEEK

LATEST COOKBOOKLET GIVES ALL THE ANSWERS TO VEGETABLE COOKERY

No matter what the season, it becomes spring when you serve this celebrated Chapeau Vegetable Plate with a crown of peas and cauliflower and a brim of sliced carrots and bundles of asparagus tips—it's one of the suggestions in our newest Cookbooklet.

Everything you want to know about vegetables is packed into the handy, economical guide that will be of value to every modern homemaker. "250 Ways to Prepare Fresh Vegetables," the eleventh booklet in the Kingston Daily Freeman's series of 20 cookbooklets is now available. It contains up to the minute information on the selection, care and preparation of every vegetable along with accurately compiled tables of mineral and vitamin content.

You'll learn how to select your vegetables, how to care for winter and summer varieties, how to prepare them so that the most food value is retained in cooking.

The vitamin and mineral tables in the Vegetable Booklet will help you select the vegetables which give the maximum of health value. Among the interesting recipes suggested in this remarkable book is this one:

Baked Tomatoes

6 tomatoes
3/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup cooked corn
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
6 tablespoons dry bread crumbs
6 teaspoons butter
Cut tops from tomatoes and remove pulp, leaving a shell 1/4-inch thick. Cover green pepper with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain. Mix tomato pulp, green pepper, corn and seasonings and fill tomato shells. Cover each with crumbs, dot with butter and bake in moderate oven, (375° F.) 25 minutes.

Here's a favorite way to serve vitamin-rich carrots:

Baked Carrots

18 small carrots
1/3 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup boiling water
Scrape or pare carrots and place in casserole. Cream, butter, sugar, salt and cinnamon together; add water and blend well. Pour over carrots, cover and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 1/2 hours. Serves 6 to 8.

Each booklet is available for only 13c with one coupon from page 2 of the Kingston Daily Freeman at any outlet mentioned therein. To order by mail, send one coupon and 16c for each booklet (13c for book; 3c for postage) to Cookbooklet Dept., Kingston Daily Freeman, Freeman Square, Kingston, N. Y.

Tire Rationing Board Accepts One Application

At the Kingston office of the tire rationing board on the third floor of the city hall it was stated today that one application for a new tire filed with the board Monday had been accepted, and that four other applications were under consideration by the board. There was a total of eight applications for new tires filed with the board on Monday, and of that number three had been rejected; one approved and four still under consideration.

It was stated that the name of the applicant whose request for a new tire had been granted would not be released until the last of the week.

Industries Want New Defense Jobs

Trend of Many Appears to Be to 'Make Over' for War Work

A suggestion was made by a local citizen today that Kingston industrial plants consider a trend throughout the nation of so-called non-defense industries toward plans and preparations to produce for the government.

Such a trend was reported in a recent article by Joseph Kaselow in the New York Herald Tribune, who points out:

Local war-contract offices have been besieged since the Pearl Harbor tragedy by swarms of small manufacturers who are feeling the heavy hand of priorities for the first time as a result of the expanded war effort and are seeking government work to keep their plants in operation.

With war production intensifying demands and affecting a wider field of materials, many firms which previously were outside the range of defense needs now are hastening to put themselves into a position where they can shift to war work without too much dislocation.

The change is not an easy one. As one official with the New York State contract distribution division of the Office of Production Management's engineering department put it: "While the reaction to Pearl Harbor is instantaneous, the problem involved in getting the production wheels turning is another matter: that takes time and effort."

At present, according to defense officials, about 300 subcontracts are being placed each month through the office. Writing of "time and subcontracts is proceeding at the rate of $1,000,000 a day."

15 Desks Kept Busy

The brunt of the current rush is being borne by the subcontract-facilities bureau of the division, at 122 East Forty-second Street, where a steady stream of small producers are being interviewed at about fifteen desks to determine where they fit into the production picture.

In some instances the government men are able to put manufacturers in immediate touch with prime contractors needing certain parts, but officials at the bureau emphasized that being able to make certain implements does not assure immediate work. One of the major difficulties is that many of the firms are in the same types of work, with the result that a number of producers may be able to do a job that can be handled by one firm.

Another factor that might keep some manufacturers who can make certain necessary articles from being put to work immediately is that the specific piece might not be needed at just this time. It is recognized, however, that when the victory program is in full swing the work of filling and assorting of production facilities which is being done now will be of invaluable assistance in speeding the job.

Despite the large number of firms registering with the office, there still is a crying need for firms that can do precise machining for high-precision work. An example of the type of work required is given in the "O. P. M. Contract News," a new publication being issued by the division, which lists among jobs open to subcontracting the following: "A New York City manufacturer holding Navy contracts for machine guns wishes to subcontract machining work in connection with the manufacture of a solenoid coil-connector or housing. Subcontractor should be able to handle turning, drilling, and threading of same." The listing includes dimensions and the quantity wanted.

To simplify finding the exact work that the various producers can do, the division recently set up a permanent "bits and pieces" display room, an exhibit of the parts required for war-production items. The display includes some 400 parts for forty-seven prime contractors, and is being enlarged continually.

500 Callers Daily

Since the opening of the exhibit a little over a week ago there has been an average daily attendance of 500 manufacturers, more than double the number anticipated. Of these, more than 100 every day have indicated that they can make one or more of the articles shown. The procedure is for the manufacturer to fill out a card stating which part he can make, and also how much of his plant is already engaged in war work, if any. It is then required to fill out a "facility record," a detailed report of the work he can do.

After this ground work is prepared, an effort is made to see whether his services can be used immediately, either in subcontracting or prime contracting. If not, his record is placed on file, to be consulted when the need arises. In this way a growing reservoir of productive facilities is being built up rapidly.

The division has on hand blueprints, copies of Army and Navy invitations to bid, lists of proposed purchases, lists of awarded contracts and other information, in addition to staffs of industrial and technical engineers to advise and assist manufacturers. It has data on plant facilities in various territories, the necessary contacts with the Army and Navy, and will even advise manufacturers with contracts how they may obtain financial assistance if lack of capital is threatening their output.

Kingston Plays Ellenville High School Here Tonight

How to Tell Army Planes

90th BOMBING SQUADRON: The "galloping dominoes" were selected by this World War I unit as its flying symbol. The dice show a "natural 7," and represent the fliers' petition for luck aloft. The digit seven also figures in the 90th's 1918 campaign in France when it scored that number of confirmed victories. The unit lost two men killed and one wounded in that war.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Jan. 13.—Orrin Merrihew, who has been ill for some time, was removed to the Benedictine Hospital at Kingston last Monday for treatment.

At the meeting of High Point Observation Post held at the Lyonsville Reformed Church last Tuesday evening there were 74 present. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Fredrick W. Kristeller, chief observer. After a few remarks by Mr. Kristeller, Miss Mildred Barley presided at the piano while those present joined in singing "America," after which the Rev. William H. Barringer, the chaplain, led in prayer. A few new observers were received at this meeting. Dr. Edward F. Shea of Stone Ridge was present and gave an instructive talk on first aid to the injured, and things needed to be kept on hand in case of an emergency. There was a collection received of about $10 to give something to pay the church for the lights and heat, also to help pay some of the expenses at the post. Since this meeting the Rev. William H. Barringer of Krumville, has been appointed and accepted as second chief observer of the post. There are now around 90 people connected with this post, of which 22 are from Krumville and 24 from Lyonsville.

Lois Gray of Olive Bridge spent Saturday last week at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Katie Davis.

Last Friday the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Kristeller at Dreamland Farm at Kyserike.

The regular monthly, also the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon of this week at the home of Deacon and Mrs. John Marshall in Olive Bridge.

Benjamin Davis of Hurley called on relatives and friends here last Sunday morning.

Church school will meet next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Every of Whitfield called at the parsonage last Sunday to visit Mrs. Barringer, who is ill.

Morning divine worship service next Sunday morning will be at 11 o'clock with sermon by the pastor. The subject of sermon will be: "The Mercy of God."

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, Jan. 13.—The annual meeting of the Dairymen's League was held Wednesday, January 7 in the Reformed Church Hall in Accord to elect officers for the coming year. A pot luck dinner was served.

Homer Hornbeck and mother, Mrs. Julia Hornbeck called last Thursday at the Avery home in West Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Polack and daughter, Barbara Gail called Wednesday on Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Quick and son, Henry.

Henry Quick has received word from his cousin, Jerry S. Quick that he had arrived safely in Palm Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Locke are spending the winter at their home Camp Shady Rest.

Ben Lyman of Rochester Center visited the week-end with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Quick.

Miss Shirley Allen of Rochester Center is with her aunt, Mrs. Floyd Krom in Napanoch.

Hile Terwilliger of Rochester Center did butchering Saturday for E. Markle of Rochester Center.

Henry Quick was a recent caller at the Gorsline and Markle homes.

Spencer Quick of Rochester Center is drawing logs to Brown's saw mill in this area.

Mrs. John Bush of Rochester Center visited last week with Mrs. Edgar Mackey and daughter.

Mrs. E. B. Markle was a recent caller on her cousin, Mrs. Lula Gray of Kerhonkson.

Henry Quick and mother were in Ellenville Saturday.

HURLEY

Hurley, Jan. 12.—The committee working under Mrs. William Warren as chairman in taking the survey of accommodations for evacuees includes John Ostrander, John Sutton, Mrs. Roger Loughran, Lowell Brooks, Miss Adeline Lawson, Thomas Newkirk, Mrs. Ernest Myer, John Gill, Mrs. Harry Skerritt, James Cuniff, Charles Relyea, Arthur Wood, Mrs. Arthur Harder and Winfred Snyder.

Voluntary contributions for the Red Cross quota may be handed to any member of the following committee: the Rev. Paul Ammerman, chairman; Mrs. Gordon Burhans,

Pete Reiser Faces Tough Assignment In 1942 Campaign

Young Brooklyn Dodger Has to Get Past Bad 'Sophomore' Jinx in Second Year

Brooklyn, Jan. 13 (Special to The Freeman)—He looked all right in his first year, but it is the second season that tells whether he really belongs. Such is the tradition in baseball concerning a young player who has finished his first year in the major leagues. The question is will he repeat?

In the case of Harold Patrick "Pete" Reiser, nimble footed young fly-chaser of the Brooklyn Dodgers, voted the most valuable rookie of the year in 1941, this test is going to be a grueling one. The going will be difficult, because of the amazing record hung up by the young man in his first full season with the Flatbush Fusiliers.

Just in case the details escape you, Reiser led the league in hitting with an average of .343, and in hitting for total bases with a total of 299. He topped the circuit in three-base hits with 17, scored the most runs, 117, and tied John Mize for leadership in two-base drives. He was leading in the number of hits made up until he was dropped out of the lineup in the last two games of the season, because of a slight hip ailment. As it was, he finished with 184 against Hack's 186. And still another first for him—he led the league in reaching first base from being hit by a pitched ball. He was nicked by opposing pitchers 11 times.

An analysis of his hitting shows that he found Cardinal pitching the toughest in the league. Due mainly to the slants and curves of Ernie White, young Cardinal southpaw, he hit only .278 against the Red Birds. While blanked him in four games, while Max Lanier curbed him twice, and young Howard Pollet once. Among right-handers, Claude Passeau of the Cubs proved most puzzling. Theanky Mississippi turned Peterkin back hitless through three games.

In spite of the effectiveness of Passeau, however, Reiser combed Cub deliveries as a whole for an average of .346. He raked Casey Stengel's Braves fingers for an average of .360, and pounded the Philly pack for the fat figure of .471. Against the Giants he compiled an average of .316 against the Reds, .320, and against the Pirates, .337.

As forecasting his probably success for the 1942 season, his boosters point to the fact that he was in or near the league lead almost throughout the season. Furthermore, he finished with a grand flourish, hitting at a .384 clip through the last 16 games in which he played. Hitting .337, starting the trip, he boosted his mark to .343 on the road.

This streak began with the two-game series in Chicago which inaugurated the Dodgers' last invasion of the west, and which included 10 hectic battles with the four western teams, with the outcome of the pennant race, hanging on the outcome of each successive contest.

The foregoing pace, obviously was a hot one and it would be expecting a great deal to anticipate that he will be good enough to duplicate it in 1942. But there are grounds for believing that the young man will do all right.

Soldiers Get Tea

Australian soldiers now can have tea and sandwiches after swimming at Palestine beaches, the Australian Comforts Fund having provided four huts for the purpose. At Gaza Beach, near Jerusalem, 35,000 cups of tea were served in one month, all the water used being carried over many miles of sandy beach in goatskin waterbags on donkeys' backs.

No More Trophies

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—With rubber now rationed, winners of Madison Square Garden basketball games no longer will be permitted to retain the ball for their trophy chest. The 60-odd balls purchased for the present season cost approximately $1,000.

Entries Are Mailed

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—A. A. U. officials mailed entry blanks today for their annual indoor track festival here on February 28.

Cutting It Down

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 13 (AP)—Many hands made light work of the new boxing ring to be broken in tonight at the navy yard. Sailmakers sewed the mat, the public works department built the platform and radio school blue-jackets spliced and wrapped the ropes.

Sailors, marines and British tars will participate in matches, first at this yard since World War I.

Very Little Chance

Miami, Fla., Jan. 13 (AP)—Dog race fans at the Biscayne Kennel Club thought it unusual when the field finished 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 in the seventh event, but they had to wait for a University of Miami mathematics professor to figure a little before they learned how unusual it was.

The professor decided the chances were exactly 545,835 to one against the dogs finishing in order.

Does His Part

Atlanta, Jan. 13 (AP)—Bobby Jones, the former grand slam champion of golf, hopes the nation will keep sports alive.

"The competitive side of golf is not as important as keeping courses open," he says. "While working under forced draft, we need some relaxation. If you work hard and play a little, it helps in your work."

Jones plans to play in exhibition matches for the benefit of the Red Cross. He already has offered his services to the U. S. G. A.

Hitched Sleds to Bumper of Auto, Had Narrow Escape

Francis Jankowski, 6, of 37 Third avenue, and Ronald Bruck, 6, of 90 Murray street, had a narrow escape from injury shortly before 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when they hitched their hand sleds to the bumper of an automobile on Murray street. Jankowski rolled off his sled as the auto passed over him, without touching him, but his sled was wrecked.

From the story of the accident as reported to the police department, Gilbert Gray, of 67 Ann street, had parked his car on Murray street, near the junk yard of the Kingston Scrap Iron and Metal plant, while he was in the junk yard. Later he walked out to the car accompanied by a friend, George Dohnken, of 58 Ann street. They got into the automobile and Mr. Gray drove up Murray street as far as Gross street, where he started to back his car preparatory to making a turn in the road, when several men on the sidewalk called to him.

Gray stopped his car and got out to see what was the trouble and found that the two little boys had hitched their sleds to the rear of the auto. Jankowski had hitched his sled to the rear bumper while Bruck had hitched his sled to that of Jankowski.

As the car started to back the Bruck boy released his sled and sprang clear, while Jankowski rolled off his sled and lay in the road under the car.

As Gray alighted from his auto it was to see the Jankowski boy crawling out from under the automobile.

Pennsylvania Papers Raise Their Rates

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 13 (AP)—Subscription rates have been raised by 25 Pennsylvania daily newspapers in the past year—most of them in the last few weeks—to meet operating expenses, William N. Hardy, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, reported today.

The cost of war coverage service, higher payrolls and heavier taxes forced the papers to increase prices, Hardy said.

He added that newspapers which raised their rates since October 1 suffered no loss of circulation to speak of, and in some cities the gains had exceeded the few losses. This is an indication, he asserted, that the public depends upon its newspapers for complete and accurate war news.

There are more than 100 dailies in Pennsylvania.

Officers Named

At the last regular meeting of The Colonial City Stamp Club the following officers were elected for 1942: Sidney Lane, president; Harry Rigby, vice president; Edwin Schultz, vice president; Augustus Raschke, secretary; Ernest Linton, treasurer. The next regular meeting will be held Friday evening, January 16, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

China Ready to Throw Resources Into Struggle

Chungking, Jan. 13 (AP)—Declaring that there was no question about the importance of Singapore and the Netherlands East Indies to all the Allies, a Chinese spokesman said today that China is ready to throw all her resources of manpower into the struggle now spread across the south seas.

"Russia, remote as she might seem, also is vitally affected as her supply route through the Persian Gulf is involved," he told a press conference.

"We have reason for confidence in the great battle of the south seas. Reinforcements are on the way," he declared.

"China expects all Chinese living in the south seas to do their duty," he added.

Field dispatches reported today that Chinese forces had launched an offensive against the Japanese-held cities of Hwaiyang, Taikang, Chicheng and Luyi, which form the points of a square measuring roughly 35 miles from corner to corner in northeast Honan Province.

The dispatches declared that several hundred Japanese troops comprising the garrison of a village just north of Hwaiyang had been wiped out during the first phase of the push.

A Japanese column in the neighboring Province of Anhwei to the east, apparently en route to aid the Honan forces, was said to have been beaten back.

Meanwhile broken remnants of the Japanese army retreating from the Hunan capital of Changsha, to the south, were said to have succeeded in breaking through a Chinese cordon along the Milo river only to find their further withdrawal blocked by other Chinese units.

A Chinese army spokesman declared that 80 per cent of a Japanese column of 8,000 to 9,000 men, dispatched from the Yangtze river port of Yochow in an effort to relieve these trapped troops, had been wiped out and predicted there soon would be no Japanese troops left alive south of the Milo river.

He estimated total Japanese casualties to date in the Changsha campaign at 45,000 to 50,000 men. Reports reaching here that Japanese troops wearing fur coats and caps recently had been seen moving southward along the Tientsin-Pukow railway were interpreted here as an indication that the Japanese had been withdrawing forces from Manchoukuo.

Home Defense

Cottekill
At the meeting held in the Cottekill Fire House on January 7, of residents of the Cottekill Fire District for the purpose of making plans to comply with civilian defense requirements as pertaining to fire districts, a good crowd was present, and 12 men joined the fire company. The company still lacks a number of men to meet the civilian defense requirements and all men of the fire district are requested to be present at the regular meeting of the fire company which will be held in the Fire House on Wednesday evening, January 14, when final action will be taken whether or not the fire company will have a sufficient number of members to carry out the civilian defense requirements. At the meeting of January 7, a willingness was shown by those present to carry out the requirements, but as only about 65 per cent of the men of the fire district were in attendance, it was thought wise to defer any definite plan of action until the meeting of January 14, when all men of the district are requested to attend and affiliate themselves with the fire company.

Defendant Compromises On Game Law Violation

Gilbert Kelder, 25, charged with shooting a deer out of season, agreed to a civil compromise of $57.50 when arraigned before Justice Flavius Dibble of Phoenicia. He was given 30 days in which to produce the money.

Kelder was arrested by Troopers Dunn and Maish of Phoenicia who had investigated a report that a deer had been shot in a field at Shandaken about 5:30 o'clock Sunday night by a motorist who had stopped his car, shot the deer and then gone on, leaving the wounded animal. The troopers had nearby and about 8:30 o'clock saw a car drive up and one of the men in the car got out and started for where the deer lay.

They arrested Kelder, who according to Trooper Dunn admitted having shot the deer earlier in the evening. His companion was found to have had no connection with the shooting and was not arrested. The deer was turned over to the Benedictine Hospital.

ment and put $100,000,000 limit on the authorized expenditures. Conferees also are seeking agreement on authorization for a $300,000,000 appropriation for defense housing and $150,000,000 for community facilities.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R-Mass.), the House minority leader, declared in a radio address last night that appointment of former President Herbert Hoover to head the price control agency "would give the nation greater confidence than those who now exercise that control."

Martin, who also is chairman of the Republican National Committee, made the suggestion on the Washington Star radio forum, broadcast over NBC. He declared the President "might do well to avail himself of the talents of a number of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats in administrative posts. Among those he named Wendell Willkie, Alf Landon, Alfred E. Smith, Thomas E. Dewey and Lewis W. Douglas.

Auto Dealers See Death Sentence in Recent Orders

Suggest Government Let Delivery of Bona Fide Orders Dated Prior to January 1

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Organized automobile dealers told a House committee today government orders curtailing the production of automobiles and freeing sales of cars and trucks constituted a death sentence for their business, unless relief is provided.

Their case was presented by Ray Chamberlain, of Washington, executive vice president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, as the special House committee created to study problems of small business opened its hearings.

Several hundred dealers from throughout the nation, and close to 100 members of Congress were present as Chairman Patman (D-Tex.) started the hearing.

Chamberlain suggested that the government permit the delivery of all bona fide orders dated prior to January 1, 1942; that if new car prices are frozen, a formula providing for a handling charge and a freight mark up be used; that prices be fixed to enable dealers to "retrieve a fair return" for handling, and that all cars and trucks produced except those for military service be handled through dealers regardless of their ultimate destination.

He further proposed that all cars requisitioned or purchased by the government from dealers be purchased at full list price; that the government pay the cost of financing, insuring and storing all cars and trucks by dealers after January 1, 1942, until liquidated or released; that the government agree to purchase at retail prices all vehicles frozen or subject to rationing which may be tendered by dealers on or after July 1, and that no restriction be placed on the sale of hearses, ambulances, town cars, limousines, and convertible cars or trucks that are not standard units.

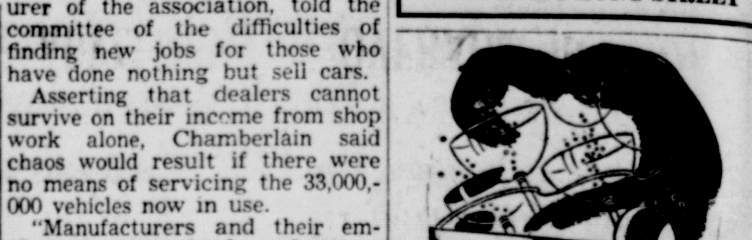

Arthur Center of Springfield, Mass., secretary of the dealers association, said he believed there had been "no detailed study" of the situation prior to the freezing order.

He suggested that material from junked cars could be reclaimed and small manufacturers could produce a single type small car, with no name, to meet transportation needs. Such a car, Center said, could be called a "Victory Car."

Center said 2,500,000 cars are scrapped annually and "are still in the junk yards." On them, he added, are "tons and tons of used rubber" which can be reclaimed. The problem of leases was discussed by Stanley Horner, Washington dealer, who said many dealers had costly leases "on show rooms which now are 'practically useless.' He suggested some plan be developed "which will be fair to both the dealer and the property owner."

BUY ADVERTISING

It's true that one must be an expert stenographer to take rapid dictation . . . and without the use of shorthand any rapid oral message quickly is forgotten.

THIS IS NOT SO WITH A WRITTEN MESSAGE!

For instance . . . an advertisement in your newspaper can be referred to again and again (and, as in the case of the lady in our illustration, may be used to make a shopping list).
